

Kennedy Supports Defense Secretary On TFX Contract

Wants Pentagon to Await Result of Senate Inquiry

WASHINGTON (AP)—With kind words for both sides, President Kennedy has stepped in between senators and defense officials battling over the TFX warplane probe.

In so many words Thursday he told the Pentagon to wait in a neutral corner for the investigation's outcome which he said would prove that Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara was right in awarding the big contract to General Dynamics Corp.

"I see nothing wrong with Congress looking at these matters," the President told his news conference. "My judgment is that the decision reached by Secretary McNamara was the right one, sound one, and any fair and objective hearing will bring that out."

Expects Fairness

And, he added later, "I assume that the McClellan committee, on which I once served, will render a fair judgment."

Chairman John L. McClellan, D-Ark., hailed Kennedy's words as fair and "nice."

"I would expect the President to say the secretary's judgment was right," he added in reply to a newsman's question.

The subcommittee is investigating whether influence was a factor in the Pentagon's award of the contract for the TFX—experimental tactical fighter—to General Dynamics of Fort Worth, Tex., over a lower rival bid by the Boeing Co. of Seattle, Wash.

Mundt's Comment

The $24-million contract covers the start of work on the plane, an all-purpose fighter-bomber to be used by both Air Force and Navy. Eventually 1,700 of the planes will be built at an estimated cost of $6.5 billion.

After Kennedy's soothing words, Sen. Karl E. Mundt declared, "I hope and expect we will not be diverted by any more attacks from the Pentagon."

Kennedy's statement was oil on troubled waters, but only time would tell if he calmed them.

Before he spoke to new men these developments had added to the storm:

The Defense Department leaked to newsmen a memorandum protesting that the subcommittee's investigators had subjected Air Force employees to "oral abuse and pressure tactics" smacking of gestapo tactics.

Charge Denied

Jerome Adlerman, subcommittee counsel, fired back that the charge was false and designed to harass one of his aides who, Adlerman said, had uncovered "enormous errors" in figures the Defense Department used to justify its award of the contract.

Double Crash On 54 Claims Second Victim

Seymour Woman Dies of Injuries at Green Bay Hospital

Mrs. Murray Augustine, 51, route 3, Seymour, the second victim of a double traffic accident Wednesday night on State 54 near Seymour, died at a Green Bay hospital early today without regaining consciousness.

Mrs. Augustine was struck by a farm truck as she crossed the highway near her home. The truck, driven by Ronald J. Johnson, 36, route 3, Seymour, was heading east on 54 about 9:15 p.m. Mrs. Augustine was driven to Bellin Memorial Hospital by a physician who happened on the scene of the accident.

Outagamie County Coroner Bernard H. Kemps has listed tentative cause of death due to skull fractures and internal injuries. Kemps has ordered an autopsy to be performed sometime today to determine an exact cause of death.

Fourth Death

Mrs. Augustine's death was the fourth fatality in Outagamie County since Sunday and the sixth since Jan. 1.

August H. Drier, 61, of Seymour, who aided her at the time she was struck, was killed outright Wednesday night after he was hit by a car at the scene of the first accident. Drier was pronounced dead on arrival at the Bellin Memorial Hospital.

He had placed his jacket over the unconscious Mrs. Augustine, then turned toward the highway and walked into the path of an oncoming car being driven by Peter Heyn, 28, route 4, Appleton. Had Been at Church Kemps said he would confer with Outagamie County Dist. Atty. Nick F. Schaefer about an inquiry into both deaths.

Mrs. Augustine and Mr. and Mrs. Drier had attended Green Bay church services Wednesday night. Mrs. Augustine, alighted from the Drier car after it stopped across the highway from her home. Mrs. Augustine walked around the back of the car and onto the highway, where she was struck.

Drier heard the accident and got out of the car and went to where Mrs. Augustine lay. He placed his jacket over her then turned back onto the highway and walked into the path of the oncoming car, police said.

Tories Lose in Latest Election

LONDON (AP)—Chances of victory for Prime Minister Harold Macmillan's Conservatives in forthcoming national elections looked no better today after the party lost ground in a race for a House of Commons vacancy.

Conservative candidate Andrew Alexander finished third in a Yorkshire district, drawing only 15 per cent of the vote. In 1959 the Conservative candidate got 25 per cent of the vote and finished second in the Labor-dominated district.

The results were: Dr. Patrick Duffy, Labor, 18,033; Richard Wainwright, Liberal, 15,994; Alexander, 6,238; Arthur Fox, Independent, 226.

Flow of Lava Stops in Bali; 1,100 Persons Die

Agung Volcano in Northeast Bali has caused untold damage since it erupted last Sunday. According to the island's governor, 1,100 persons have lost their lives, 75,000 are homeless and 200,000 have lost the source of their livelihood because the lava has destroyed crops and buildings. The volcano has been quiet for more than a century. In the foreground is the famed Besakih Temple, which is almost four miles from the volcano. (AP Wirephoto)

75,000 Are Homeless On Island

DENPASAR, Bali (AP)—The deluge of lava from sacred Agung volcano was reported to have stopped today after five days of eruption. The governor of Bali said at least 1,100 islanders have perished.

"We have 75,000 homeless people to feed at this point, and we need help from everybody," said Gov. Anak Agung Sutedja.

He said another 200,000 may have lost their livelihood. Thousands of acres of once-fertile rice-land lay beneath tons of lava and ash that have blanketed Bali's northeast coast.

An estimated 100,000 Balinese were fleeing the stricken area. Riding and afoot, they carried what possessions they could as they tried to get away from the 10,308-foot volcano which erupted briefly in February after years of virtual quiet, then went into violent action Sunday.

More Eruption Feared Reports from the disaster area said a heavy column of smoke still billowed from the crater.

A civil defense spokesman in Jakarta said earlier that more violent eruptions were feared, and authorities were trying to clear about 250,000 persons from a radius of 20 miles around the volcano.

A mushroom-shaped cloud of smoke could be seen from aircraft flying into Denpasar, but no ash was visible in this capital, about 70 miles southwest of Gunung (Mount) Agung.

Many foreign tourists were on the island, but all were believed safe. Most of them are staying in Denpasar.

Agung awoke with a roar last month. Its first eruption killed 17 people.

Hundreds Buried Last Sunday it came back with a second explosion, pushing lava down its slopes and burying hundreds of people under a deadly umbrella of searing ash. The governor said most people were killed by the ash cloud. He said the temperature of the ash was 230 degrees.

People who survived the holocaust at 7 a.m. Sunday said it became as dark as night for two minutes, and the ash choked almost everything.

The governor said hundreds were roasted alive in three villages just south of the mountain as they knelt in prayer.

Travelers returning from the area in Bali's northeast reported survivors said many priests and their disciples refused to leave their villages despite the danger.

The governor said many people Turn to Page 3, Col. 2

3,000 Soviets Quit Cuba, JFK Asserts

Hopes Withdrawal Only Starter in Evacuation

BY FRANK CORMIER

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy says the Soviets have withdrawn some 3,000 troops from Cuba in recent weeks—and he hopes this is only a starter.

Kennedy told his news conference Thursday that "we are waiting to see whether more will be withdrawn, as we would hope." But he said the scope of the withdrawal would not be fairly evident until the end of March.

When the Soviet Union promised last month to withdraw several thousand troops from Cuba by mid-March, the U.S. government estimated Soviet military and technical personnel in Cuba totaled about 17,000.

by reading a four-minute statement on this three days of talks this week at San Jose, Costa Rica, with the presidents of Panama, Costa Rica, El Salvador, Guatemala, Honduras and Nicaragua.

Friendly Hemisphere

Said the President, who flew back to Washington late Wednesday:

"I return from San Jose with increased confidence that we will continue to live in a hemisphere of independent, firm and faithful friends."

Noting that this was his third trip south of the border, Kennedy said that each one makes it clear that Latin Americans "by an overwhelming majority, are ready to work to sacrifice, to fight if necessary, to maintain their own freedom, and to build societies which serve the welfare of all their people."

In the domestic area, two topics were paramount.

No Recession Indicated

Kennedy said, "We don't believe that there will be a recession this year," that economic indicators seem more encouraging. But, he said, later, if the economy falters and Congress wants to speed up his plan for a three-year tax cut.

Publishers and Union Agree

Delivers Group Accepts Terms for New Contract

NEW YORK (AP)—Publishers of eight closed-down newspapers have reached tentative contract agreement with another union.

Announcement of the settlement with the Newspaper and Mail Deliverers Union was made today as the stage was all set for a new vote by striking printers on Mayor Robert F. Wagner's formula for ending the 105-day-old shutdown.

Officers of the printers union predict the men will approve Wagner's terms, already approved by the publishers.

Settlement of the printers strike could get the newspapers back on the streets next week—possibly as early as Monday.

Wagner's Proposals

Publishers figure Wagner's formula is a two-year package of $12.63 a week—an increase of $6.51 in the first year and an increase of $6.12 in the second year. This includes a pay raise of $4 a week in each of the two years. The printers' prestrike basic pay averaged $145 a week.

Four of the closed newspapers are strikebound; four are closed voluntarily.

President Kennedy said at his news conference Thursday that he hoped for an early settlement of the newspaper strikes here and in Cleveland.

Paraders Assail Junta in S. Korea

Demonstrations Pose Threat For Military Government

BY CONRAD FINK

SEOUL, South Korea (AP)—The largest antigovernment demonstrations in South Korea's 22 months of military rule erupted today in Seoul and two southern cities.

Confronted by his most serious challenge to date, strongman Gen. Chung Hee Park declared anew he will not waver from his plan to extend military rule for another four years.

About 600 slogan-chanting demonstrators marched the streets of Seoul, demanding that the military junta keep its earlier promise to restore civilian government in August. Police seized scores of marchers.

Military Threat

Park banned political activity in this tense nation March 16 and proposed a referendum on his plan to continue military rule.

The military junta warned in a nationwide broadcast that the armed forces stand behind the government. In a show of force, a vehicle convoy of officers traveled from Park's residence to the defense ministry.

The demonstration in Seoul brought out many civilian political leaders. For the first time, members of the general public joined in.

Police broke up similar demonstrations in Pusan, the nation's

Oshkosh Man Claims Youths Robbed Him

OSHKOSH—An Oshkosh man told police he was robbed of about $400 by five or six youths a block off Main Street shortly after midnight Thursday.

James Smith, 1009A Jefferson St., reported the group, which included a girl, took the money from him in the 600 block of Division Street and ran. He said the money was from a credit union check he had cashed Thursday afternoon at an Oshkosh supermarket.

Police were called at 12:05 a.m. by Harry Price, 620 Division St., after he and a friend found Smith lying across the hood of his friend's car. They had heard the horn blowing and went out to investigate and found Smith.

Police said Smith told them he had stopped at a downtown beer bar and after drinking there left and went to a Main Street tavern. Smith reported the group of five or six had been in the beer bar and had followed him.

He made tentative identification of two of the youths from Oshkosh police pictures. Bartenders at both taverns confirmed that Smith had been in the bars and that a group of youths had been in the beer bar and that they left shortly after Smith.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House National Parks subcommittee gave unanimous approval Thursday to a bill calling for the formation of a 32,500-acre Ice Age national scientific reserve in the glacial areas of Wisconsin.

A sum of $50,000 is provided by the bill to draft a plan to "protect, preserve and interpret" Kettle Moraine, Devil's Lake, Chippewa County and other small glacial areas in the state.

Wisconsin Democratic Reps. Henry Reuss of Milwaukee and Lester Johnson of Black River Falls introduced the proposal.

Pneumonia-Flu Deaths Climb To New Highs

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—The largest excess number of pneumonia-influenza deaths in any week since the first appearance in 1957 of Asian flu in this country was reported today by the U.S. Public Health Service.

The Communicable Disease Center said reports from 108 cities for the week ending March 16 showed a total of 1,118 deaths from pneumonia and influenza.

This figure is 585 above the normal expectancy for the period, the report said. During 1957-58, the greatest number of excess deaths was 542 for the week ending Nov. 9, 1957.

A total of 37 states and the District of Columbia now have reported flu outbreaks while Asian flu has been confirmed in 25 states and the District of Columbia.

Excess deaths were the number above the normal expectancy or average for a specific period. In the case of pneumonia-influenza, the normal figure varies between 500 and 600 a week, a health official said.

Disappearance of Girl Causes Gossip in House of Commons

BY HAL COOPER

LONDON (AP)—War Minister John Profumo, 48, told the House of Commons today he had been friendly with a good-time girl whose disappearance has touched off a nationwide wave of gossip.

But he said he had not seen her in more than 14 months and knew nothing of Miss Keeler her present whereabouts.

Labor members of Commons demanded Thursday night that the government deny—or open an inquiry into—rumors that a leading government minister was involved in a witness and the pervert with Christine Keeler, 20, who said she had failed to appear as a witness in a shooting case.

One Laborite, Barbara Castle, said there were rumors highly placed persons were responsible for hiding Christine, whom she termed "the missing call girl."

"I understand my name has been connected with rumors about a girl's disappearance," Profumo told the Commons today.

"Any suggestion that I was in any way connected with or responsible for her absence at the trial at the Old Bailey is wholly and completely untrue."

The name of the minister had not been mentioned in the exchange between the Laborites and the Conservative government spokesman, Home Secretary Henry Brooke.

Profumo said he was prompted to make his statement today because of allegations that "people in high places might have been responsible for concealing information concerning the disappearance of a witness and the pervert with Christine Keeler."

The minister said he last saw Miss Keeler in December 1961. Watching from the gallery as Profumo made his statement was his wife, Valerie Hobson, a noted British stage and screen actress.

Profumo said he and his wife met Miss Keeler at a house party at Cliveden, home of Viscount Astor, son of American-born Lady Astor.

Among the others at Cliveden at the time, he said, were Dr. Stephen Ward, an osteopath.

"Between July and December 1961, I met Miss Keeler on about half a dozen occasions at Dr. Ward's flat," Profumo said.

"Miss Keeler and I were on friendly terms. There was no impropriety whatever of any kind in our acquaintanceship."

Christine's discarded Jamaican boy friend, John Edgecombe, 30, tried in January to shoot his way into the apartment she shared with a girl friend.

He was sentenced last Friday to seven years in jail for possessing a firearm with intent to endanger life. But Christine failed to appear as a prosecution witness and a charge of shooting at her with intent to murder was dismissed. The court wants her to explain why she didn't appear at Edgecombe's trial.

Today's Etiquette

BY LOUISE DAVIS

GREEN LIGHT FOR PARENTS
Dear Louise: The son of my closest friend has just become engaged to a local girl whose mother is dead and whose father lives in New Hampshire. Formal announcement has not yet been made although word is getting around fast. The boy's parents would like to give an announcement party but realize that they shouldn't. Could I do it and still be correct? If so, how would I handle the invitations so it won't seem as though I am springing the official news? If I give the party, I will know hardly anyone on the guest list as I would be inviting about 30 of the young couple's close friends along with the boy's parents and relatives.

Louise Davis Answers:
Let's abandon the idea that a party that you or the boy's parents give would be officially an engagement announcement. It will be to celebrate the engagement in which case perhaps the boy's parents would prefer to entertain after all. News of the engagement is already known even if the girl's father hasn't officially announced it. Surely it can be assumed that he will be doing it in absentia under the circumstances. If the boy's parents give the party, I suggest that their invitations state that they and their son will be giving an Open House "to meet (or to greet) Miss Mary Ann Smith." Saying it this way saves them from announcing the engagement.

The Ailing House Repair for Ceiling

By Roger C. Whitman
LOOSEENED CEILING COVERING

Q: We have a canvas-like covering on a bedroom ceiling. In two places, this has apparently loosened and there are small "blisters". How can the covering be smoothed out?

A: Make a slit across the loosened covering with a razor blade. Then work some wallpaper paste behind the canvas, using a dull knife blade or screw driver. Press in place and hold it tight against the plaster for a few minutes. Wipe off all paste smears with a damp cloth as soon as possible.

WATERPROOFING WOOD PLATFORM FLOOR

Q: We have a wood platform-type floor at the rear entrance of our house. I want to enclose the area underneath and use it for storage. However, the floorboards are not tightly built together. How can I cover these so there won't be rain or snow seepage through them?

A: Cover these floorboards with roofing canvas, available at roofing supplies dealers, following manufacturer's detailed installation instructions. Recommend covering ground underneath with overlapping sheets of polyethylene plastic to protect against ground moisture. Even simpler: Cover floorboards with panels of exterior grade masonite or similar type of product.

RUBBING ALCOHOL DAMAGED VARNISHED SURFACE

Q: Rubbing alcohol was carelessly spilled on the varnished top of a chest of drawers and not wiped up for quite a while. The whole top is badly spotted and needs refinishing. How can I do this repair myself?

A: Remove what's left of the finish down to bare wood, using any good paint remover and following label instructions carefully, especially as to neutralizing afterwards, if necessary; otherwise, the remover may continue its effect on the new finish. When the bare wood is dry, sand it smooth with fine sandpaper and wipe off all dust. Then stain to match rest of chest. When dry, apply two thin coats of clear varnish, or whatever is the proper matching finish.

Official Wants Meade Street Jog Corrected

Mueller's Resolution Also urges Keeping Industry in Appleton

Ald. Donald Mueller (17th) wants city and Appleton Chamber of Commerce officials to pay more attention to Appleton's industries, and has urged relocation of a street to assist a local firm with its expansion plans.

A concerted effort to have the city relocate Meade Street south of Wisconsin Avenue was urged by Mueller in a letter to Mayor Clarence Mitchell and the common council.

Mueller expressed interest in both the Fox River Tractor Co., which has announced plans to relocate outside of the city, and the Appleton Coated Paper Co., the latter expected to launch a major expansion program soon.

"At the present everyone seems worked up about one of our larger and older industries moving out of the city, namely the Fox River Tractor Co.," Mueller said.

"Alderman Stilling's resolution asking for a conference with the company was indeed a smart move, and I for one hope some headway is made to keep them in the city," Mueller added.

Mueller emphasized, however that he thought another problem of equal importance existed which needed attention of city and Chamber officials — relocating Meade Street so Appleton Coated could expand.

Mueller said sometime ago Appleton Coated said it wanted to build an addition west of its present buildings.

"This of course means relocating Meade Street south of Wisconsin Avenue," Mueller said.

He warned that if the city failed to relocate Meade Street there was the possibility the firm would change its building plans and the city would lose tax dollars.

Mueller said if Appleton Coated put in another machine, it would mean more tax dollars for the city and additional employment. "At the same time we will be eliminating a bad intersection which affects many, many people," Mueller said.

His resolution, referred to the street-sanitation committee, instructs the different municipal agencies to "start working immediately to get this project underway."

City officials have discussed the relocation of Meade Street periodically over the years. But the project which is expected to cost thousands of dollars, has not been programmed.

It is not included in the council's capital improvements program.

Engineers have recommended that the jog in Meade Street at the intersection be corrected, terming it "a serious safety hazard."

Constable Warns Against Firearm Use in Grand Chute

Town of Grand Chute Constable John Arft has warned that carrying of firearms or the firing of guns in the town limits is illegal. Arft said the town limits are from the Appleton city limits to new U.S. 41.

Arft said some "serious incidents" in the last few weeks has prompted the warning. Stray bullets have hit several homes and buildings.

Guns found on persons in the town limits will be confiscated. Arft said, in an effort to enforce a present town ordinance against carrying the weapons.

Construction of Second Ramp Scheduled to Start April 15

Bi-Level Structure Will Hold 434 Cars; Another Story Possible

Construction of the city's new $416,000 bi-level parking structure in the downtown area will start April 15.

Mayor Clarence Mitchell confirmed the project's launching date this morning following a meeting of city officials and contractors at city hall.

The facility, already given the name of East Ramp by the common council, will be the city's second parking structure.

First One Open

The 257-car capacity West Ramp at Division and Washington streets was built by the city last year at a cost of $360,000, and opened in December.

Site of the new structure, which will accommodate 434 cars, is two metered lots covering a half block area bounded by Franklin, Morrison and Washington streets.

It was announced that site preparation work will get underway Monday morning when crews move into the northern half of the lot to begin the removal of parking meters. Within the next few weeks the blacktop will also be torn up prior to the start of excavation.

Contracts Specifications

Among those participating in today's briefing for the major project were: City Clerk Elden Broehm, City Atty. Frederick Froehlich, Public Works Director Robert W. Bues, City Planner Walter Rasmussen, Electrical Inspector Fred Volkman, Building Inspector Charles Magnette and contractors.

William Collings of W. T. Collings & Associates, the Milwaukee firm which serves as the city's parking ramp consultant and handles the engineering, reviewed contract specifications.

General contractor for the parking structure is Fluor Brothers Construction Co. of Oshkosh.

Bues raised the question as to whether all sub-contractors were certified with the city clerk as far as their insurance liability was concerned. Collings and the contractors indicated that provision of the contract had been complied with.

May Block Street

Broehm then issued signed construction contracts to the firms which will be doing the work. The ramp is designed to permit adding another story. Capacity then would be 670 cars.

Contractors said they would work out a construction timetable and indicated it would be necessary to periodically block off a street near the work site for movement of heavy equipment and unloading of supplies.

Leonard Vanses, resident engineer for the project, indicated there is heavy frost in the ground, possibly six to seven feet deep.

Officials said frost is the cause for holding back on actual construction until mid-April.

The city received "unusually good" bids on the structure, originally estimated to cost about $600,000.

In recent years the city purchased land in anticipation of the East Ramp construction. It cost $258,000 and was paid for out of the parking revenue fund.

Elected State School Board Given Support

Mrs. George Munro Says It Would Give Some Lay Control

An elected state board of education would provide for some lay control at the state level in addition to the professional outlook, said Mrs. George C. Munro, president of the Appleton Board of Education and chairman of a study committee of the Wisconsin Association of School Boards, which has proposed a state board of education.

Mrs. Munro spoke Wednesday at a hearing of the Assembly education committee in support of a proposed constitutional amendment that would provide for a state board of education, with members elected on a nonpartisan basis from each congressional district.

The proposed amendment would abolish the elective office of state superintendent, and provide for appointment of the superintendent by the board, which would begin supervision of public elementary and secondary education on July 1, 1969.

Better Supervision

Mrs. Munro has been chairman of the study committee since it was set up in 1957. Its reasons for supporting an elected state board and an appointed superintendent, she said today, are the belief that it would be better if the supervision of education was set up on the state level in the way it is on the local level, that the superintendent would not be as subject to political pressures, and that it would provide a collective judgment on things decided at the state level and some lay control at the state level.

The election of the board by congressional districts would assure fair representation throughout the state, she added, because many state problems require understanding of problems in each district.

The Wisconsin Education Association is supporting creating of an advisory state board of education, with the method of selection to be decided by the legislature, but favors continuation of an elected superintendent.

Advisory Board

The study committee opposes an advisory board, Mrs. Munro said, because "we feel it would lack vigor and authority and would be quite ineffectual if it did not have some powers."

All states except Wisconsin and Illinois have a state board of education, although the functions and methods of selection differ, she said. In our studies of state boards throughout the United States, the most harmonious situation in relations between the superintendent and the state board seems to be when the board appoints the superintendent, he said.

The League of Women Voters representative told the Assembly committee the league opposes taking the voting privilege from citizens, and said the league supported an elected advisory board to assist the state superintendent.

Representatives of the Milwaukee County Association of School Boards and the Wisconsin Federation of Teachers said the present system worked well and should be retained.

Lt. Gov. Olson Picks Attorney as Assistant

MADISON (AP) — Lt. Gov. Jack Olson has picked as his administrative assistant William Duke, city attorney for Jefferson, who has practiced law in Jefferson and Madison where he also has been active in television.

The job was created by one of the first acts of the 1963 Legislature.

Xavier High Says 'Thanks' To Appleton

The City of Appleton received a "thank you" from Xavier High school this week.

The school, which won the 1963 state Catholic basketball championship, sent a letter to City Clerk Elden Borehm.

"On behalf of the faculty, team members and students of Xavier High school, the student council would like to thank the City of Appleton for all it has done in connection with winning the state Catholic tournament," wrote Brother Peter, principal.

"We express a special vote of thanks to Mayor Mitchell and the Appleton Common Council for proclaiming 'Xavier Week' in honor of our championship basketball team," he added.

"Our school is tremendously proud of being the No. 1 Catholic team in the state and equally proud of the fine support of the City of Appleton," Brother Peter concluded.

It was the first state basketball title to come to Appleton in more than 30 years.

Speaker Urges Latin American Aid

OSHKOSH — "Is It Too Late in Latin America?" was the topic of Oshkosh State College's fifth Pan American Week program Thursday evening at Hotel Athearn.

The speaker, Norman Carignan, who has had extensive experience in the Latin American field for 20 years working in all of the countries, concluded that "It is very late, but not too late if we act now."

Carignan, vice president of the South American Group of W. R. Grace and Co., discussed the economic situation in which the Latin Americans find themselves and how the United States, particularly businessmen, can assist the people and fight Communism at the same time.

Pleds Innocent Of Topsy Driving

Morgan J. Jorgensen Jr., 39, route 2, Neenah, pleaded innocent of drunken driving and will face trial July 9. He appeared in Outagamie County Court, Branch 2 today and posted $250 bond.

Richard H. Bowden, 37, 2817 E. Wisconsin Ave., also charged with one or two crops for their livelihood. When the prices decrease, they have fewer dollars to work.

"These people are dependent on one or two crops for their livelihood. When the prices decrease, they have fewer dollars to work," he said. As an example, Carignan told the jury that when the price of coffee in the United States drops 25 when a new judge will be selected to hear his plea.

"We have a large stake in the future of these countries," he explained. "The restlessness of the people derives from the severity of their problems and their growing impatience for better living standards."

He said no other area is receiving more business and political attention than Latin America and talked of the work of the Alliance for Progress and the role of the private sector. Leading American businessmen formed the Alliance about one year ago to devise means of stimulating the flow of American investments back into Latin America, Carignan stated.

"The popularity of Castro has dropped considerably," he commented. "A few years ago Castroism and communist propaganda proved very effective."

Private businessmen generate 80 per cent of the land's economic activity, Carignan stated, but only 10 per cent of this represents United States investments.

The Latin American cities are tripling in size, he reported, and some schools are already on triple shifts.

There are a variety of ways this can be done in any community, and it is up to the community to decide how it wants to do it, he said.

Businessmen See Schools in Action

Union Takes Case to DA

Schaefer to Examine Evidence in Hourly Rate Hassle

Dist. Atty. Nick F. Schaefer has received all evidence collected by union officials in a union claim that LeRoy Geiger Construction Co. underpaid two employees in violation of a contract between the company and its workers.

Teamster business agent, Robert Schlieve of Local 563, met with Schaefer today in Schaefer's office. Schlieve said after the meeting the district attorney informed him the evidence will be examined, and Schlieve will be contacted for further meetings.

Schlieve said the union does not intend to bring charges if the construction firm is found in violation, but that the state will be the complainant. The district attorney would sign the complaint.

Schaefer said he had not had a chance to examine the evidence but would look it over before deciding if charges are to be brought.

The union has claimed the construction firm did not pay certified wage rates on city street projects and that two workers, David Krueger and Joseph M. Hietpas, had been underpaid.

Electric Worker Injured by Truck

Donald Reader, 42, route 1, Kaukauna, an employee of the Superior Electric Co., was injured near the site of construction of new power lines near Little Chicago off State 55 about 8:30 a.m.

Reader, received fractures to both legs when he was pinned between two trucks. He was taken to the Kaukauna Community Hospital by the Kaukauna ambulance. The accident occurred in Calumet County.

The businessmen watched primary pupils study the principles of addition at Lincoln, home arts students bake cookies at Wilson, biology students take samples of their own blood at Appleton High School, and business students operate calculating machines at the Appleton Vocational School, as part of their visits.

In her welcoming speech, Mrs. Munro took a look at the business of education that made clear the difficulties the schools face. Kaukauna Clubs Told Advantages Of United Drives KAUKAUNA — Federated campaigns are the most effective way to support services in the community. A. Rowland Todd, executive director of the Appleton United Community Services, and the Neenah-Menasha Community Chest and Council, told a joint meeting of Kaukauna service clubs and the Kaukauna Chamber of Commerce Thursday.

The persons attending decided to discuss the matter with their clubs and to meet again in about a month.

In his speech entitled "Doorbell Dilemma," Todd discussed how some communities were meeting the problem of multiple solicitations. Some 2,200 communities raised in excess of $520 million last fall in Community Chest or United Fund campaigns, he noted.

There are a variety of ways this can be done in any community, and it is up to the community to decide how it wants to do it, he said.

Green Bay Man Pleds Innocent

Frank Schlise, 41, Green Bay, pleaded innocent of passing a worthless check for $349 when he paid for materials for his cottage last fall.

Schlise will face trial May 15. He is being held in the Outagamie County jail pending payment of a $350 bond.

Visitors Assigned to Specific Appleton Classes, Told of Mounting Costs, Enrollments

About 100 Appleton businessmen watched the Appleton public schools in action Thursday afternoon in the city's first Education-Business-Industry Day.

"Today we want you to see and hear how much we have learned about the business of imparting knowledge and how we put it into operation in the classroom," said Mrs. George C. Munro, president of the Board of Education, in her welcome to the businessmen.

The program was a "return engagement" offered to the businessmen, who last fall entertained the teachers and showed them what business and industry are doing in the community. The EBI Day was sponsored by the Appleton Education Association with the cooperation of the Board of Education, the Board of Vocational and Adult Education, and the Appleton Chamber of Commerce.

Visit Classrooms

Following an introductory meeting in the Lincoln School auditorium, the visitors made themselves at home in classrooms at Lincoln Elementary School, Wilson Junior High School, Appleton Senior High School and the Appleton Vocational and Adult School.

No special programs were planned. What the visitors saw was the regular program in operation. They were assigned to specific classes, and also toured the buildings. Remarks by the building principal or director and a tea and informal visits with the faculty of each school concluded the program.

Priest Urges Farmers To Promote Rural Areas

St. Nicholas Church, Freedom, Host To 800 for Annual Catholic Observance

FREEDOM — Catholic farmers throughout the Fox Valley area Thursday heard of a new approach for solutions to problems plaguing rural areas.

The Rev. Edward O'Rourke, director of the National Catholic Rural Life Conference, Des Moines, Iowa, supported Rural Development citizen committees now operating in 2,000 counties throughout the United States.

Martin Issues Statement on Bill Criticism

Law Would Change Government of 8 Counties in State

NEENAH — David Martin, assemblyman from the Third District of Winnebago County, recently introduced legislation to change the form of county government for counties of more than 100,000 population which includes Winnebago County.

This bill has received some criticism from local supervisors, meeting with the Winnebago County Action Committee of the Chamber of Commerce of Neenah-Menasha. Assemblyman Martin issued the following statement today:

"Recently I, with three other Assemblymen, introduced a bill that purports to change the present form of county government. This bill is one of several county government reform measures introduced in the Legislature so far this session.

"The final draft of this legislation was a culmination of a study made by Chamber of Commerce groups, newspapermen, city officials, and many private individuals within these eight counties who were deeply concerned over the problems facing our larger county governments.

"The bill would require that all counties having a population of 100,000 or over, excluding Milwaukee County, must establish the office of county executive; and further would provide a section that would limit county board representation to five supervisors for each assembly district.

Eight Counties

There are eight counties that now fall into the 100,000 or over population classification. They are Outagamie, Winnebago, Brown, Racine, Waushara, Dane, Kenosha, and Rock.

No one group or individual agreed on all features of this bill. Several felt that we should only deal with the county executive position. Others felt that a county executive should be an elective position. However, it was finally agreed to proceed with a draft that would incorporate the provisions as outlined above.

In discussing the merits of legislation such as this, three points were considered in developing the over all plan for county government reform.

1. Provide some type of population apportionment of county supervisors.
2. Relieve county supervisors of much of the administrative duties that they now have, and
3. Limit the ever-increasing size of county boards.

Strengthen Home Rule

It was the intent of all proponents of county governmental reform to strengthen the position of home rule not to weaken it in our local units of government.

If we fall short of pointing out the problems facing local government, we will soon abdicate more of our governmental responsibility and power to some higher unit of governmental control. This most of us agree is undesirable.

This proposal, as others before us, has generated an extreme amount of criticism from some county board supervisors. In the last several days it was implied by these supervisors that this group of interested citizens were attempting to affect a change in

OSHKOSH — Tuesday night, April 2, was set by the aviation committee of the Winnebago County Board Thursday night for a meeting with the Neenah-Menasha Chamber of Commerce airport committee and the Oshkosh Citizens Airport Committee.

The groups that night will review the items to be covered in an engineering survey of the county airport.

A suggested list of points to be covered in the survey will be sent to both groups in advance of that meeting so that they will be prepared to suggest any additions or deletions from the items to be covered by the survey.

Nason on Education

Must Find Happy Medium Between Studies and Sports Activities

BY LESLIE J. NASON, Ed. D.

Professor of Education, University of Southern California

Dear Dr. Nason:

What can I do to improve my grades? I play so much basketball that I have no time to do my homework. When I get time to do it, I don't feel like doing it.

Should I cut down on sports and start working more on homework?

R. G. Jenks, Okla.

Learn to discipline yourself to exercise less and study more. Success in an out of school depends upon your ability to show moderation in things such as sports, eating, television, etc.

Don't allow any one thing to take over your life to the detriment of other worthwhile things.

Dear Dr. Nason:

Our daughter, Linda, is 10 years old and in the fifth grade. She has a high IQ, and receives straight A's with little effort. Very seldom brings home work unless it is a project.

The teacher has her doing errands, teaching other students how to read, assembling test papers, etc., but she still has too much time in school. She is helpful at home, is a Girl Scout and belongs to the Safety Patrol.

At present the only thing we can do, according to the school, is try to keep her supplied with good books. We want her to grow up to be a well-balanced person. How can we help her?

D. S. Somers Point, N.J.

Answer:

You are very fortunate to have such a well-adjusted daughter with a teacher who takes an interest in her personal development. The help she is giving the teacher, especially that of helping other students, is very worthwhile. Relax and enjoy her.

Dear Dr. Nason:

Our son is in ninth grade. I have not been able to get him interested in reading and I feel this will keep him from doing well in English.

Everyone in our family reads. He has seen me sitting and reading all through his growing years. I had hoped he would take after me and read too. He is an avid sports fan and does read all the sports magazines, but he needs to read other books as well. He will read one or two chapters of a book and then lose interest.

He plans to go to college, but he makes B and C grades although his teachers tell me he is capable of A work.

Please help me with this problem.

P. R., Savannah, Ga.

Answer:

Your son sounds like a well-rounded boy. He may have built up a resistance to your pressure toward reading.

If some counselor or friend of the family could help him become interested in better grades through better study techniques to meet college entrance requirements, his reading interests and skills will improve as a side effect.

Dear Dr. Nason:

I didn't know my math very well until I really started to study, and

I still don't know most of my math. My mother told me to study harder and I study a little bit harder but I still don't know it.

How can I learn my math faster?

D. L. (10) Port Arthur, Tex.

Answer:

It isn't how "hard" you study, it's HOW you study that counts. Try two things:

Listen to your teacher explain your math, and then try to explain it to your mother. This will help you understand it.

The other thing you can do is practice writing numbers until you can write them rapidly and neatly.

(Dr. Nason will welcome your questions addressed to him in care of this paper. Those of most general interest will be answered in his column.)

En route to Hawaii, Hulbert will address several alumni clubs, visit west coast colleges, and interview prospective students in California. He will speak before the San Francisco alumni group on March 23 at Alfred's Restaurant, and before the Honolulu club on March 30 at the Oahu Country Club. Chairman of the former meeting is Ted B. Dear Eve Jones: I've noticed that most of my neighbor's children suck their thumbs and require a blanket at bedtime. Why?

Mrs. A. C. Both make children feel more secure.

Hunt for the Cause

Dear Eve Jones: Honestly, I don't see how we can be having an emotional problem with our 5-year-old boy! My wife was a schoolteacher and believes her place is in the home with our children, and we're a very close, happy family. But our son still is never dry in the morning.

We have never made an issue of the situation, and we offer all the assurance we can. He seems to want so badly to be dry. But even if we get him up at 11 p.m. when we go to bed, he doesn't stay dry. And then he asks us in the morning why we didn't take him to the bathroom. What can we do?

Mr. R. D. Your son is well past the age where he can be "innocently" wetting the bed. If his physical health is O.K., he should be aware of what's happening to him during the night and be able to control his bladder, unless some emotional problem is operating.

Stop wasting effort trying to convince yourself that nothing can be wrong, and instead get busy discovering and correcting what ever must be wrong.

Farmers Told To be Proud Of Work, Soil

Catholic Rural Life Day Stresses Putting Goals in Right Place

FREEDOM — Peace for all, whether farmer or city dweller, lies in ordered equilibrium—the simple putting of things in their proper place and keeping them there, the Rev. Thaddeus Koszarek, Sacred Heart Seminary, Onondaga, told farmers gathered for a Catholic Rural Life Day Thursday.

"You can have all the gold and diamonds you want, but if you have no food you die."

The richest resource on earth is that top six or eight inches of soil, he said, and God gave to the farmer the job to till it to perfection. Christ, he added, never gave to one group the right to all things, but to the farmer he gave the task of tilling land so all might benefit.

Man Needs Ideals

Christ, in the Scriptures, is quoted as saying man does not live by bread alone, the priest said. Man too needs ideals, if he is to work. Farming is a very particular vocation which leads to eternity, he said.

Too many people think man will find himself secure with more earthly organizations rather than looking up to God. All human ingenuity is worthless unless man looks to God, he said.

It seems, he said, the more concern for material security—the more unhappiness among men. Spiritual security alone will give you peace, he said. When you know what you do is right before the Creator, you have peace.

Sense of Vocation

Peace, he explained, is ordered equilibrium keeping spiritual obligations first and earthly obligations second.

Man, to succeed, needs a sense of vocation, Father Koszarek said. He must see a divine plan for life, not as an instrument but as a very important part of life.

When a man does not love his land or farm he is not a success, he said. Such a man lacks the realization of his vocation. Be proud of your work, he said.

MENASHA — Firemen were rushed to the residence of R. J. Hanson, 345 Cleveland St., Menasha, Thursday when an iron stove burst out and molten metal dropped onto a linoleum covered floor.

Firemen said several holes were burned into the floor, leaving an estimated $250 in damages.

No house-to-house effort is scheduled. Lamers asked that people who received solicitation letters mail donations as soon as possible so the money should be turned over to the county unit by April 15. Lamers said he hopes donations will exceed $2,000.

KIMBERLY — More than 1,000 people, nearly filling Holy Name of Jesus Catholic Church, turned out Thursday to pay last respects to Dr. Donald W. Curtin, long-time physician and friend of the community who died Sunday.

The Very Rev. Edward J. O'Donnell, S. J., chancellor of Marquette University, gave the eulogy paying tribute to the doctor for his devotion to the community, church, family and the university.

He praised Dr. Curtin for devotion to his patients, his family and community. Father O'Donnell was a long-time friend of Dr. Curtin, a Marquette alumnus.

Solemn High Mass

The solemn high mass was read by the Rev. Joseph Kools, pastor, with the Rev. Thomas Mortell and the Rev. Gerald Bouressa, assistants, serving as deacon and sub-deacon. Seated near the altar were Rt. Rev. Msgr. Emil Schmidt and the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Joseph Becker.

Six physicians served as pallbearers. Other doctors from throughout the area were seated in special pews, as were nuns from St. Elizabeth Hospital and Holy Name parish, and nurses garbed in white caps and uniforms.

Village and school officials attended. Students from Kimberly High School were given permission to miss classes. There were many freshmen and sophomores, classmates of two of the doctor's children.

Parent's World

Childish Actions Are Part of Growing Up

BY DR. EVE JONES

Dear Eve Jones: I would like some advice concerning my 12-year-old daughter. She used to make As and Bs, but now she brings home Bs and Cs. And she becomes extremely silly when her friends are visiting. She giggles and acts in such a flighty, ridiculous manner that I just want to shake her to make her stop.

When I try to tell her in a nice way how silly her behavior looks, we can't seem to stay calm. She's very critical of me and of some of her younger friends who haven't become interested in hairdos and clothes, yet.

She simply cannot see how juvenile her own mannerisms are. Does such behavior come from a feeling of insecurity? If so, what steps can I take to help her?

Mrs. M. V. H. Draw a deep breath and put on a brave smile — then suffer in quiet for the next two or three years. She'll settle down and act in a less juvenile manner when she's no longer so juvenile. And she'll stop being critical of you if you stop criticizing her.

If her grades drop below Cs, insist that she stop some of her nonschool activities until she brings her grades up again. But otherwise, just grin and bear it. She's only young this way once.

Sense of Security

Dear Eve Jones: I've noticed that most of my neighbor's children suck their thumbs and require a blanket at bedtime. Why?

Mrs. A. C. Both make children feel more secure.

Hunt for the Cause

Dear Eve Jones: Honestly, I don't see how we can be having an emotional problem with our 5-year-old boy! My wife was a schoolteacher and believes her place is in the home with our children, and we're a very close, happy family. But our son still is never dry in the morning.

We have never made an issue of the situation, and we offer all the assurance we can. He seems to want so badly to be dry. But even if we get him up at 11 p.m. when we go to bed, he doesn't stay dry. And then he asks us in the morning why we didn't take him to the bathroom. What can we do?

Mr. R. D. Your son is well past the age where he can be "innocently" wetting the bed. If his physical health is O.K., he should be aware of what's happening to him during the night and be able to control his bladder, unless some emotional problem is operating.

Stop wasting effort trying to convince yourself that nothing can be wrong, and instead get busy discovering and correcting what ever must be wrong.

For a copy of a new pamphlet by Dr. Jones, "How to Solve Toilet Problems," write to her care of the Appleton Post-Crescent, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope and 10 cents in coin to cover handling.

KAUKAUNA — Although second semester adult classes at the Vocational School have been concluded, several special courses have been arranged, according to Dominic Bordini, director.

A course offered for the first time in the homemaking line will be household mechanics and home safety. The class will open at 7 p.m. Tuesday and run for four weeks, with each period two hours. The course is designed for housewives wishing to learn how to handle small repair jobs such as replacing faucet washers, fixing light cords, hanging pictures and general care of electrical equipment. Instructor will be Duwayne Gilchrist.

Other classes will include three clothing classes for six weeks, designed especially for women with some sewing experience. Classes are scheduled from 7 to 9:30 p.m. on Mondays and Tuesdays and 1 to 1:30 p.m. Wednesdays.

A 4-week course in small gas engines will be offered beginning Monday with William Mittlestaedt as instructor. Sessions will be from 7 to 9 p.m. and cover fundamentals of 2-cycle and 4-cycle engines, fuel systems, electrical systems and ignition.

A first aid course resulting in a Red Cross certificate award will get underway Monday and from 7 to 9 p.m. for six consecutive weeks.

Clifford Rogers will instruct. Students will take the standard course necessary to gain a certificate.

A civil defense course in individual and family survival will begin at 7 p.m. Wednesday, be of 2-hour duration and run for six weeks. Instructor will be James Stevens. The course provides information necessary for survival in event of a natural disaster or enemy attack.

A modern mathematics for adults class will start April 2. The class will be two hours in length and run for 10 weeks. The course can be utilized by persons with either a grade school or college education and is designed for those interested in knowing the new approach to mathematics. Persons may register for any of the courses by calling the school office.

USC Opposes Tax Proposal

Board Will Explain Stand in Letter to President Kennedy

The Appleton United Community Services board of directors Thursday voiced opposition to the 5 per cent floor on income tax deductions proposed by President Kennedy.

The 5 per cent floor would include charitable contributions and all other deductions.

There are two reasons for the board's action, according to Marvin Heiden, UCS president. One is that charitable contributions are the one discretionary expenditure that people have, he said. "It is essentially an unselfish act, while other expenses included in the deductions are more or less mandatory."

The second reason is that many services dependent upon contributions are of such a character that they could neither be operated by government or subsidized by the state in any other manner than through contribution deductibility because of constitutional limitations, he said.

The board will send a letter to President Kennedy explaining its stand.

The quarterly meetings of the UCS budget committee will be on April 24 and 25, according to chairman Melvern Hemmen.

Single Can of Tuna Blamed

Chance of Another Contaminated Tin Called Slight

DETROIT (AP) — A tuna can from which two Detroit women ate and then died contained a rare type of seafood poisoning, but health authorities said today indications are that it was the only tainted one among thousands of pure tins.

George T. Daughters, Detroit chief of the U.S. Food and Drug Administration, said "there seems little doubt that Type E (clostridium botulinum) is the type organism involved," and added:

"It was isolated from the lid of the can in question and from the intestinal content of the first victim."

Dr. Robert J. Solomon, who treated the second victim, said he attributed her death to "botulism, and everything points to Type E." Daughters said tests of many other cans from a suspected west coast shipment to Detroit area A&P supermarkets proved pure. So did those taken from other shipments.

There have been no other reports of botulism food poisoning in the Detroit or other areas of the country.

Daughters said FDA officials are unable to explain how only one can was contaminated, but told newsmen: "The chances of finding another contaminated can appear to be slight. It may be that we'll never know how only one can was involved."

(Appleton and Neenah A&P stores, like others across the country, removed A&P brands of tuna from their shelves as a precaution but none of the cans came from the suspected shipment.)

Little Chute Man Appeals Verdict In Battery Case

Willard Van Handel, 55, 903 Depot St., Little Chute, has appealed a judgment finding him guilty of battery against his sister, Mrs. Ruth Hartjes, 837 W. Grove St., last fall.

The appeal was filed in Clerk of Courts Sydney Shannon's office Wednesday. The case will go to the Circuit Court sometime during the October term, Shannon said.

A 12-man jury found Van Handel guilty March 6 after deliberating one and one-half hours. Outagamie County Judge Gustave Keller fined Van Handel $200.

In testimony, Mrs. Hartjes said her brother had beaten her, choked her, hit her head against the wall and threw her from his home into the driveway last Oct. 30. Mrs. Hartjes was hospitalized four days after the incident.

One of Van Handel's attorneys, Urban Van Susteren said he was not allowed to introduce "pertinent" evidence into the day-long trial and the jury was deliberately "left in the dark" on certain parts of the case.

going to result in the best product from that material."

5. "We cannot throw out the materials which seem to be inferior."

6. "We cannot be sure that customer acceptance and desires will remain consistent."

Helpful Attitude
"Consequently, whatever success we think we have achieved in trying to make a product must be done with an attitude of trust and hope," she said. "That attitude we have." Expanding knowledge in education as in all areas of endeavor is helping the schools to do a better job each year, Mrs. Munro said. "We feel we know more about our raw material, more about the molding process and more about what constitutes a quality product than we ever have before."

Superintendent of Schools Royce E. Kurtz pointed out the "tremendous investment in education," which takes about 50 per cent of the local tax dollar. Enrollment in the Appleton public schools has increased about 36 per cent since the early 1950s, and a building program costing about $6.5 million is planned through 1967-68, he noted.

Technical Education
The schools are concerned with the pursuit of excellence, he said, and with individual differences among pupils and ways in which to provide for them.

Carl Bertram, director of the Appleton Vocational School, told the businessmen that technical education is now the major educational effort of the school. The image of the vocational school is of an educational program for compulsory age youth (under 18), he said, but this group has steadily grown smaller, and now numbers only 50.

Challenge of Change
To illustrate the school's program, he broke down last year's enrollment of 3,796 into the various programs, including technical, post-high school vocational, agriculture, adult, homecraft, and driver education programs.

William Spears, assistant superintendent, told the visitors that his department is charged with keeping the curriculum up to date, and illustrated tremendous "challenge of change" which necessitates research and experimentation with different approaches to education.

All the knowledge accumulated to the time of the beginning of the Christian era was doubled by the year 1900, he said. This in turn was doubled by 1950, again from 1950 to 1960, and again from 1960 to 1963, he went on. The way knowledge is piling up at such a tremendous pace, it is assumed that after 1963 it will double every year, he said.

Sherwood C. Russell, assistant principal of Madison Junior High School, was general chairman of the program.

Norman Beckman, Appleton, a physicist in Kimberly-Clark Corporation's paper and converted specialties laboratory, has been appointed a research associate by the company. The appointment recognizes research and development personnel who have excelled in scientific work. J. J. Shipman, left, vice president and director of research, and K. A. Craig, center, manager, paper and converted specialties department, congratulate Beckman.

Beckman Named K-C Research Associate

Norman Beckman, 924 E. Hancock St., has been named a research associate of Kimberly-Clark Corporation, J. J. Shipman, vice president and director of research, announced today.

Beckman is the company's first research associate. Walter Roehr and Donald Grangaard, both of Appleton, were named senior research associates a few years ago under the same program.

An Appleton native, Beckman graduated from Lawrence College in 1949 and received a master's degree in physics from Williams College in 1951. The following two years he was a staff member in physical chemistry at the Institute of Paper Chemistry.

Important Work
Beckman joined Kimberly-Clark in June 1953. He is a physicist in the paper and converted specialties laboratory.

Beckman's most widely known contributions to the pulp and paper industry have been in the field of printing papers. He developed improved methods of testing newspaper printability for the American Newspaper Publishers Association. He has also developed new tests for evaluating offset papers and curl.

"evidence into" the day-long trial and the jury was deliberately "left in the dark" on certain parts of the case.

In the rapidly growing field of web offset printing, Beckman has discovered the mechanism of delamination and developed a new test method to measure paper sensitivity to delamination.

Oshkosh Man Pleads Guilty in Winnebago; Was in Accident

OSHKOSH — Ralph Schroeder, 27, 506 W. Fifth Ave., Oshkosh, pleaded guilty of drunken driving this morning and was fined $100 and costs by Winnebago County Branch 3 Judge James V. Sitter. His driver's license automatically was revoked for one year.

Schroeder was arrested by Oshkosh police at 5:15 p.m. Thursday after his car was involved in an accident in the 700 block of Oregon Street in Oshkosh. He tested .17 on the breathalyzer. A reading of .15 is considered evidence of intoxication. Schroeder told the court he had "seven or eight glasses of beer" and thought he was able to drive all right.

Safety Record Set At Valley Iron Works Plant

Valley Iron Works Corp., a subsidiary of Allis-Chalmers, posted one of the finest safety records in the company during 1962, according to R. A. Peterson, president and general manager.

The plant completed the year's operation with a frequency rate of 3.3 disabling injuries per million man hours worked and a severity rate of 54 days lost per million man hours worked. The frequency rate dropped more than 50 per cent and the severity rate declined 78 per cent over the 1961 figures. Four departments finished the year with over 2,000 days without a lost time accident.

Valley Iron's performance surpassed that of the company as a whole. Company-wide averages for 1962 show a frequency rate of 4.3 and a severity rate of 177—a new record.

Peterson said, "In 1963 our goal is to reduce the number of disabling injuries through a program of constantly reminding employees of their responsibilities in safety. We also seek improvement in the number of eye cases requiring medical treatment."

56 Students From 12 Schools Enter Third Science Fair

Judging Takes Place Saturday Morning at Music-Drama Center

Fifty-six students from 12 Fox Valley high schools will enter exhibits in the third Fox Valley Science Fair at the Lawrence College Music-Drama Center this weekend.

Judging of exhibits and a science seminar for students is scheduled for Saturday morning. Prizes will be awarded at a short program at 7:30 p.m. Saturday in Harper Hall of the Music-Drama Center. The fair will be open to the public from 1 to 10 p.m. Saturday and from 1 to 5:30 p.m. Sunday.

The science fair winner will go on to the National Science Fair-International in Albuquerque, N. M., this summer.

The fair is sponsored by the Knights of Pythias, Appleton Lodge No. 113, and Lawrence College.

A new feature of the fair this year will be the science seminar from 9:30 to 11 a.m. Saturday in the Lawrence College Science Hall. All exhibitors are expected to attend. Several of the college science staff members will talk to the group about opportunities for undergraduate college training in science, and will conduct a tour of the college science facilities.

Four Speakers
Dr. Sumner Richman is science seminar chairman and also will speak on the teaching and research program in biology at Lawrence College. Other speakers will be Dr. Bruce Brackenridge, physics; Dr. Stephen Darling, chemistry, and Dr. Max Hawkins, geology.

A limited number of students who are not entered in the fair but are interested in the science seminar may attend by contacting Carl L. Roehl, fair director.

A second new feature of the fair will be interviews of the exhibitors by the judges. This will help the judges in deciding the merits of the project and whether the student knows the scientific facts that the project presents.

Judging will take place from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Saturday, and interviews will begin at 1:30 p.m. Saturday. Students should be prepared to answer questions on the details of their exhibits.

The 48 exhibits are entered in biological sciences, physical sciences and chemistry. The trip to the National Science Fair International will be the award for the best project. A set of World Book Encyclopedia is the second place award. A chemistry physics handbook is the third award.

Other awards include the Navy Cruiser Award, a one-week trip with the U.S. Navy for a sophomore, junior or senior boy; five U.S. Air Force certificates in specialized fields; six National Aeronautics and Space Administration certificates in specialized fields; medals for first, second and third place in each group, and 50 Mentor Science Books.

Committee chairmen assisting Roehl are Dr. Richman, science seminar; Earl D. Miller, fair arrangements; William C. Blesner, fair judging, and A. R. Kurg, finance.

Exhibits have been entered by students from Appleton, Fox Valley Lutheran, Xavier, Clintonville, Freedom, Kaukauna, Lourdes of Oshkosh, St. John of Little Chute, Winneconne, Hortonville and Kimberly high schools and Wilson Junior High School, Appleton. The fair is open to students in Outagamie, Winnebago, Calumet and Waupaca counties.

Warren Works 7 Innings, Gives Up Only 3 Hits

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Milwaukee manager Bob by Brogan has many problems, but they don't include Warren Spahn. The southpaw wonder appears set for another season as the ace of the Braves' pitching staff.

Spahn, who will be 42 on April 23, stepped up his training program by hurling seven innings Thursday, but the punchless Braves were handcuffed by three rookie hurlers and dropped a 2-1 decision in 10 innings to the New York Mets.

After suffering three straight defeats as he slowly conditioned himself, Spahn looked like the old master as he held the Mets to three hits in going the longest of any Milwaukee pitcher this year. Spahn struck out one and walked two. The only run off him was tainted. The Mets put two

Providence Deals MU '5' 70-64 Loss

Warriors Sink Only 12 of 47 First-Half Shots in NIT Duel

NEW YORK (AP)—Marquette's Vinnie Ernst, who scored six of Providence's last eight points, finding the basket against a harassing defense and dropped a 70-64 decision to Providence Thursday night in the semifinals of the 26th National Invitation Tournament at Madison Square Garden.

The Warriors, who had hit on 51 per cent of their field goal attempts in a quarter-final romp over St. Louis, encountered one of their poor shooting nights as their NIT title hopes were buried.

"We were tense and we were very tight," said Marquette Coach Eddie Hickey. "We also had a bad break with center Dave Erickson. Not only did he play with a broken hand, but he had an upset stomach and he got into foul trouble."

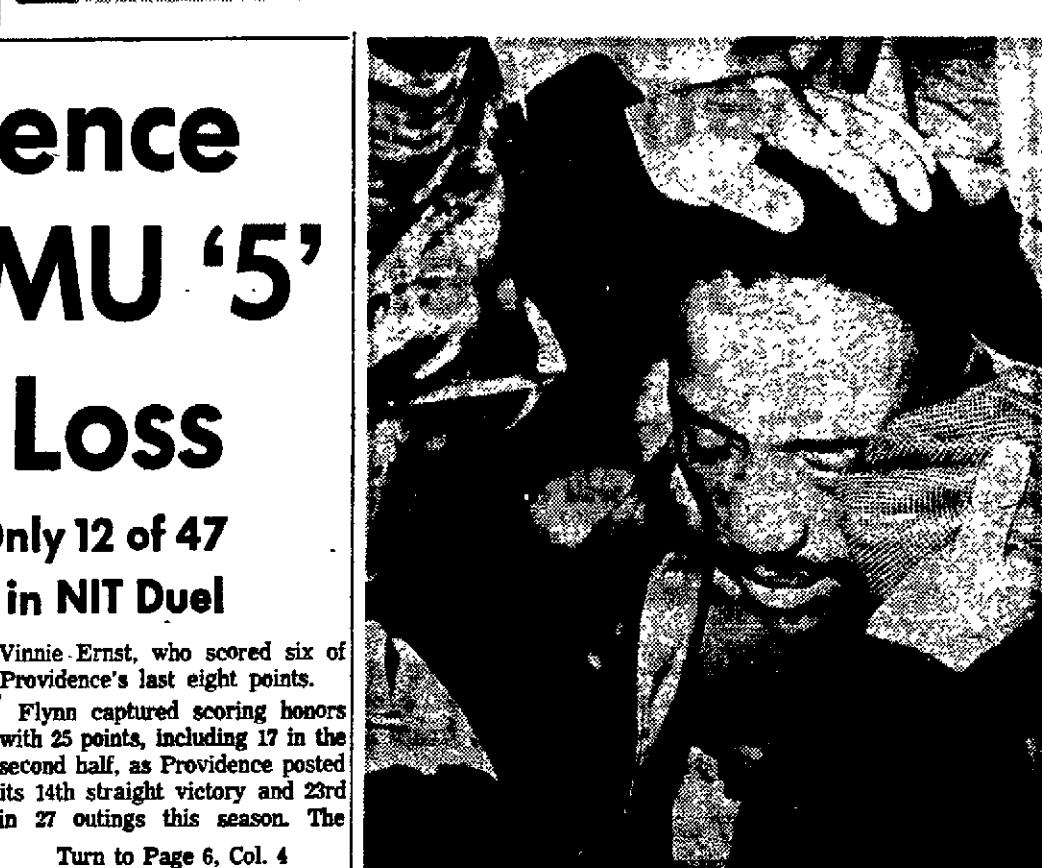

Although they connected on only 37 per cent of their floor shots, the Warriors had a 30-28 margin in field goals. However, the Friars cashed 14 of 20 free throws, while Marquette made good on 4 of 7 charity tosses.

Hits 12 of 47

Providence opened a 32-25 half-time lead as Marquette sank only 12 of 47 shots. However, the Warriors closed to within one point 43-42 midway through the second half. Then Friar Capt. Ray Flynn broke loose.

Flynn, a sharp-shooting guard, triggered a 16-6 burst with a three-point play. He would up with 13 of the 16 points in the spurt and also set up a field goal with a steal.

The surge made the score 50-48 and two Marquette rallies were offset by the scoring of 5-foot-8

NEW YORK (AP)—A Turtle who treed a Wildcat is the newest—and perhaps most improbable—member of the National Invitation Tournament's starting ranks.

And the harassing job Pat Turtle, barely recovered from a broken ankle, did on slick, hot shooting Wally Jones of the Villanova Wildcats, has to be the key reason Canisius is in Saturday's championship game in the 26th annual basketball classic.

With Jones going without a point in the last 16 minutes, the Griffins steamed past Villanova 61-46 Thursday night before a packed house of 18,429 at Madison Square Garden and gained the final along with Providence.

Fast-firing Ray Flynn again paced the Providence Friars.

Albie Pearson Leads Angels to Seventh Straight Exhibition Win

BY MIKE RATHET Associated Press Sports Writer Albie Pearson, the littlest Angel of them all, looks like he's over-matched every time he picks up a baseball bat. The way Pearson's been swinging lately, the bat must feel like a baton.

Pearson, who stands just over 5-foot-5½ and weighs in at 141 pounds after eating, whipped the bat around at the Los Angeles camp again Thursday, leading the Angels to their seventh consecutive exhibition victory, 5-3 over San Francisco.

The 27-year-old left-handed swinger stroked three hits—one a triple—at Palm Springs as the Angels handed the National League champions their fifth straight setback. Pearson also stole two bases, which brought quick smiles from Manager Bill Rigney.

Rigney has tabbed Pearson as a key man in an effort to generate more speed on the basepaths. And Pearson, who led the American League in runs scored with 115 last season, could fill the bill. He led the club with 15 thefts in 1962.

Ramos Didn't Know Moore Was Injured

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Sugar Ramos was trying to sleep early today, but couldn't. Across Los Angeles the man whose world featherweight title he had won lay in a coma, his condition grave.

Ramos had returned to the hotel and learned there that Davey Moore was in critical condition. He arose quickly when a newsman asked him if he had been told of Moore's condition.

"Yes," he said, "They tell me he is in very serious condition. I am very sorry."

Ramos said he asked if he could go to the hospital and was told that no one was allowed in Moore's room. Doctors said Moore is in a deep coma with a serious brain injury and may not live.

"They said that he will be unconscious for 12 hours," he said. "I won't try to go to the hospital tonight. Perhaps tomorrow. I hope he will be better. I hope he will recover."

Ramos, who speaks no English, praised his stricken opponent as "Un buen hombre"—a man he obviously admires.

"He seemed all right when we left the ring," he said. "I didn't know anything was wrong."

Ramos said he would try and go back to sleep—but he was so wound up his words tumbled out in excited Latin profusion.

One phrase repeated itself as he recalled the evening on which he won the title Moore held for four years.

"Lo siento mucho," he said. "I am very sorry."

Davey Moore Critical After Taking Bad Ring Beating

Loses Featherweight Crown to Ramos on Knockout in 10th; Rodriguez Takes Griffith's Title

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Davey Moore, who lost his world featherweight title in a 10th round knockout by Sugar Ramos, remained unconscious and in critical condition early today.

Authorities at White Memorial Hospital said at 6 a.m. that the 29-year-old Columbus, Ohio, prize-fighter's condition was unchanged. Moore was rushed to the hospital shortly before midnight after collapsing in his dressing room at Dodger Stadium, about 45 minutes after the fight ended.

Four doctors have been treating and testing Moore at various times since he was hospitalized. They said he suffered "brain stem damage at the base of his skull."

BY JACK STEVENSON

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Former champion Davey Moore was in a coma suffering from "a serious head injury" and his chances of living are poor, a hospital physician said early today after the former champion lost his title to Sugar Ramos in one of three title fights here Thursday night.

Dr. Philip Vogel reported the former featherweight champion was in a deep coma.

"His chances are extremely poor," Dr. Vogel said. He added that Moore had suffered general injury to the mid-brain area and said that Moore's fate probably will be known within the next 12 hours.

No brain operation was contemplated, although a tracheotomy was performed to make breathing easier for the stricken fighter.

All three boxing titles up for grabs had new owners today after a pair of spectacular knockouts and a controversial decision in the ballyhooed triple championships fight extravaganza.

Hour After Fight

A crowd of 26,142 watched as Ramos won the featherweight title in the middle bout by kayoing Moore—who was taken by ambulance to a hospital about an hour after the fight. He was unconscious and X-rays were taken.

In the opener at Dodger Stadium, Luis Rodriguez took the welterweight championship away from Emile Griffith on a decision—unanimous but subject to argument. In the windup, Roberto Cruz wound up and knocked out Batling Torres in the first round and won the vacant junior welterweight title.

The doctor described Moore's injury as a contusion, more serious than a brain concussion.

Another physician, Dr. Robert Locke, the physician for the California Athletic Commission, said the injury was apparently at the small area at the base of the brain, which controls vital functions such as the heart and breathing.

"We presume there is a swelling in that area because of the coma," Dr. Locke said.

Boxing officials, including Moore's manager, Willie Ketchum, who had asked the bout be stopped, and trainer Teddy Benham, kept vigil at White Memorial Hospital.

Also at the hospital was Moore's wife, Geraldine, who never watched her husband in the ring, but was given permission to see him at the hospital. She wept as she left Moore's room.

Terror Track Team Boasts Improved Depth, Experience

Prepares for April 4 FRVC Indoor Meet at Manitowoc

BY JOHN L. PAUSTIAN Post-Crescent Sports Editor

The 1963 Appleton High School track team, boasting good depth and good promise, is roughly halfway through preparations for its competitive event of the season—the Fox River Valley Conference indoor meet at Manitowoc.

The Terrors, who finished fifth in both the FRVC's indoor and outdoor meets last year and third in the conference relays, hope to reap the benefits of the experience gained in the "building" year under new coach Keith Kohlman.

As Kohlman starts his second season at the helm, he can call upon the services of 14 lettermen —twice as many as were available in '62. The only event in which no letterman is returning is the discus.

Bowlers Advised to Get Entries in Early for Post-Crescent Meet

Blanks Published In Paper and Available at Alleys

BY JIM HARP

Post-Crescent Staff Writer Entry blanks for the first annual Post-Crescent Bowl-O-Rama are now available, and from the early indications of interest it is advisable for bowlers to get their entries in as soon as possible to assure them of their first choice of time and date.

Blanks will be published periodically in the Post-Crescent and also will be available at area bowling establishments and at the Post-Crescent office.

Bowlers are reminded that the $2 entry fee must accompany all entry blanks.

The Bowl-O-Rama will be a 4-game sweepstake opening April 23 at the 41 Bowl. Both men and women are eligible to compete, and there will be two classes with major awards in each.

Men's Classes

The men's Class A group will be for men keepers with an average of 161 or better with Class B for those with an average of 160 and under.

Women's Class A competitors

must have an average of 141 or higher and the 140-and-under averages will be in Class B.

Handicaps will be figured on this basis: Using a 200 scratch figure for men and 180 for women, the handicap will be two-thirds of the difference between the bowler's average and scratch.

A bowler's highest league average, as of March 1, 1963, will be used to determine the handicap. To use the league average, a bowler must have rolled 18 or more games in the regular 1962-63 schedule. If a bowler did not roll in 18 or more games, his 1961-62 season average will apply. Averages must be certified by the league secretary on the entry blank and any falsification of average will disqualify the bowler from the tournament.

It may be well to point out that those bowlers who compete in more than one league are re-to be seen. But 118 candidates (17 seniors, 40 juniors and 61 sophomores) are working hard to convince Kohlman and assistant coaches Herb Simon and Gene VandenHeuvel that they're the ones who can return the Terrors to title contention.

First Outdoor Test

The April 4 indoor meet in Manitowoc launches a 12-meet schedule for the Terrors. The first outdoor action is on the docket for April 18 when Neenah and Fond du Lac come here in the first of three home appearances for AHS.

Heading the Terror cast is Dick Bunn, who last year won his second straight FRVC 440-yard run title and placed fourth in the state meet. Bunn is also being groomed to run the 880 this year and will alternate on the two events.

Mike Woehler, another senior letterman, was the highest-scoring junior last year when he totaled 45 and a fraction points. Woehler will return to high hurdles and high-jump duty, but, in addition, will perform in the broad jump this season.

McKee Works Out

Chuck McKee, who scored just over 45 points as a sophomore in '62, is being counted on the broad jump and the hurdles and possibly

Cincinnati Seeks Third Consecutive NCAA Cage Title

7-Foot Mel Counts, Baker Lead Oregon State Quintet

BY DON WEISS
LOUISVILLE (AP) — Cincinnati meets Oregon State and Chicago Loyola plays racehorse with Duke's Blue Devils tonight as basketball's big three and an upstart that could steal it all reach the showdown stage in the National Collegiate Championships.

Cincinnati, top-ranked nationally and seeking a record third straight NCAA Championship, plays tall, tough but unranked Oregon State in the wind-up of the doubleheader that opens at 7:30 p.m., EST, with second-ranked Duke against third-ranked Loyola.

The winners will play for the championship beginning at 9:30 p.m., EST, Saturday night with more than 100 stations contracted to carry the first national telecast of the title game since 1954.

Sellout record crowds of 19,153 will stream both nights into massive Freedom Hall on the Kentucky State Fairgrounds, where the Bearcats of Ed Jucker took their second championship a year ago with a 71-59 pasting of Jerry Lucas and the top-ranked Ohio State Buckeyes.

Not As Strong

The current Bearcats, although they've won 25 of 26 games and led The Associated Press poll from start to finish, aren't rated quite as strong as the clubs that spilled Ohio State and the great Lucas last year and in the 1961 final at Kansas City.

But as Oregon State's Slat Gill says:

"You don't pick against a champion, especially when four of its five starters are back. They have the talent, Ed Jucker always has them well prepared, and they have the benefit of having played in the championship game before."

"We came down here to win our third straight championship," says Jucker. "We're concerned about Mel Counts, their 7-foot center, and about Terry Baker, whose great leadership is worth 10 to 15 points on the court. But we're ready, mentally and physically. We have no excuses or alibis."

All-America Ron Bonham, Tom Thacker, Tony Yates and George Wilson are back with the cool cats from last year and while they've had a bundle of difficult games, they've stumbled only once—by one point to Wichita in February after holding a six-point lead with three minutes left.

In Oregon State, the Missouri Valley Conference champions face a club that finished strong for a 22-7 record and bounced fourth-ranked Arizona State U. by 18 points to get here for the semifinals.

Gill credits the late surge to Counts—"in the last 7 or 8 games he has raised himself to the stature we'd hoped he would"—and Baker, the Heisman and Maxwell Trophy winner in football last fall and a take-charge playmaker and pesky scorer in basketball.

"If Counts has a big night," Gill said Thursday night, "we feel we've got a chance against anybody."

26 Wins in Row

Duke is on the hottest streak of the semifinals, having won its last 26 games for a 26-2 record. The Blue Devils came to town full of confidence after the great play of Jeff Mullins in the Eastern Regional at College Park, Md., last weekend. With All-America Art Heyman off in his shooting, Mullins took charge, scored 49 points in two games and was named the regional's most valuable player.

"One word characterizes our ball club," said Coach Vic Bubas, "and that is confidence. We have great respect for the other teams but we don't fear any of them."

Duke's one-two punch of Heyman and Mullins will go against a Loyola team that rolled to the highest offensive average among the major colleges, 92.6 points a game, in winning 27 games and losing two. All five Loyola starters average in double figures, led by All-America Jerry Harkness and 6-7 Les Hunter.

"It'll be nice just to see how good Duke is," said Coach George Ireland of Loyola, with a bit of tongue-in-cheek. "I hope we can give them a good game."

Royals Crush Nats, 133-115, In Playoff Tilt

Free-for-All Erupts; St. Louis, Detroit to Meet

CINCINNATI (AP)—"We'll certainly dish it out Saturday night," declared Syracuse Coach Alex Hannum after the Cincinnati Royals had crushed his Nats 133-115 Thursday night and evened the best-of-5 Eastern Division semifinal National Basketball Association playoffs at 1-1.

Hannum referred to the third game of the series which will be played at Syracuse Saturday night.

Cincinnati's triumph was enlivened by a free-for-all late in the first half and Hannum asserted that the officials, Sid Borja and Willie Smith, let the Royals do as they pleased, but blew the whistle at his Nats.

"We'll have to fight fire with fire," Hannum said. "We didn't come down here prepared for a game like this. But we'll certainly dish it out Saturday if we have to play that way to win."

The Royals denied Hannum's charges about the fight that started when Tom Hawkins and Al Bianchi grappled over a rebound under the Syracuse basket and fell to the floor.

Both benches emptied when the two went down, and a lot of punches were thrown. Observers said few, if any, were landed.

As for the game itself Cincinnati's Oscar Robertson proved the difference. He scored 41 points, grabbed 15 rebounds and handed out 12 assists.

The Western Division semifinal resumes tonight at St. Louis with the Hawks favored to take a 2-0 lead over the Detroit Pistons.

Bobcats Seek USHL's First Tourney Title

GREEN BAY — Green Bay's Bobcats, already possessors of the United States Hockey League's regular season championship, launch their quest for the USHL's first tournament title at Waterloo, Iowa Saturday night.

The Bobcats, who take an impressive 25-7 record into action, face the St. Paul Steers in the tournament's opening game at 6 p.m. A victory would lift them into Sunday afternoon's finals.

The other first round game sends Rochester's Mustangs, runner-up in the schedule season with a 20-12 mark, against the host Waterloo Black Hawks, 16-16 in USHL competition.

Tomorrow night's losers will play for third place honors at 1 p.m. Sunday, with first round winners clashing for the championship at 3-45.

The Bobcats' chances are clouded by injuries to Player-Coach John Mayasich, Dick Dougherty, Jerry Sullivan and Gerry Frenette, all injured in last Sunday's series finale against Waterloo.

Mayasich, who injured his left hip when he crashed into the Waterloo cage in the second period, said, "I tried skating a little last night and it didn't feel too good."

Dougherty, he added, "still has a weak knee and Frenette has a sore back and the flu." Sullivan is suffering from a month-old groin injury, aggravated in Sunday's game.

Kennedy Pledges Assistance If Detroit Is Olympic Site

WASHINGTON (AP)—If Detroit is chosen as the site of the 1968 Olympic Games, the U.S. government will do all that is possible to assist in the promotion and administration of the Games, President Kennedy said Thursday.

The President made the comment in reply to a question during his regularly scheduled press conference.

President Kennedy said he is a great believer in the Olympic Games and, should a U.S. city be chosen the 1968 site, would want this country to present itself as a vigorous society in supporting the Games.

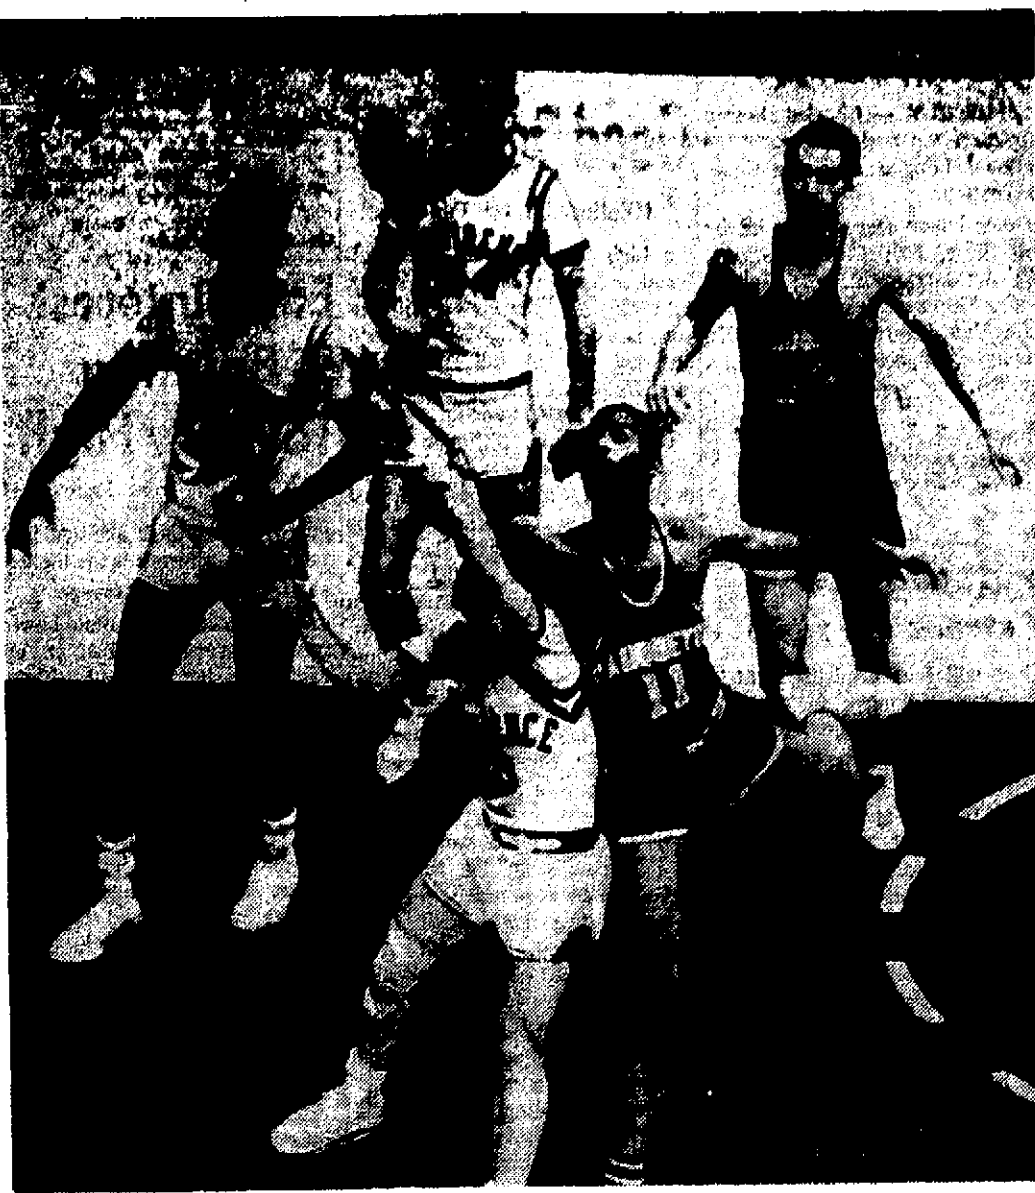

Detroit, Lyon, France, Mexico City and Buenos Aires are among the cities under consideration as the site of the 1968 Games.

On another question, the President said he hoped that the long-standing dispute between the National Collegiate Athletic Association and the Amateur Athletic Union had been settled.

He said that Gen. Douglas MacArthur had done "a very effective job of arbitration" in working toward a settlement.

Newsman, Boxing Officials Await Word on Davey Moore

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A small cluster of newsmen and boxing officials waited in tense silence early today at White Memorial Hospital for word of stricken boxer Davey Moore's condition.

Moore, who lost his world featherweight title in a 10th round knockout by Cuban Sugar Ramos Thursday night, was listed in grave condition with a brain injury. Doctors said his chances for recovery were poor.

The 28-year-old prizefighter's wife, Geraldine, who never watches Moore in the ring, visited her unconscious husband earlier in the night. She was taken, weeping, to a small room nearby.

In the lobby were Moore's manager, Willie Ketchum; Ramos' manager, Carlos (Cucu) Condee, and Ramos' American representative, Angelo Dundee; promoter George Parnassus, a few friends and several newsmen.

Talks to Reporters

Ketchum told newsmen that Moore collapsed a few minutes after talking to reporters in his dressing room. He held his hands to his head and moaned: "Oh, my head aches," Ketchum said. Then the Columbus, Ohio, prizefighter, who had held the title for four years, slid into unconsciousness.

Moore's manager said the ex-champ's mouthpiece was broken in an early round and, as a result, he swallowed an excessive amount of blood.

He decided Moore was taking too much of a beating in the 10th round, Ketchum continued, and asked to stop the fight although Moore assured him: "I'm all right." His manager said he told Moore: "There will be other nights."

There was little talking among the tight-lipped visitors at the hospital. Most of the boxing crowd expressed surprise at the extent of injury to the tough little featherweight with the powerful punch.

Hoppmann Drops Out of School

Both have signed contracts with Montreal of the Canadian League. They denied reports they had been dismissed from school but refused to say why they were leaving.

MENASHA — Fox Valley Catholic Conference scoring champion "Kip" Whillinger bagged 39 points to lead WHBY Radio (Xavier) to a 91-76 triumph over (Jim's Standard Service) Kimberly in the St. John Senior open basketball tournament here Thursday night.

Tom Hiestand scored 38 points, but Dave's Sport Shop (Kaukauna) dropped a 78-75 decision to Trader's Grocery Store (Neenah) in the night's other contest.

Lakers' Wiley Fractures Hand In Scrimmage

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The injury jinx continues to stalk the Los Angeles Lakers.

Gene Wiley, 6-foot-10 defensive star, suffered a broken right hand Thursday during an intra-squad scrimmage as the Lakers were getting ready for the National Basketball Association championship playoffs.

Coach Fred Schaus said Wiley has two fractured metacarpal bones and will not be available when the Lakers play the winner of the St. Louis-Detroit series in the Western Division final.

Elgin Baylor Tops Voting

Chamberlain Not Named to NBA's First Team

NEW YORK (AP)—Wilt Chamberlain, San Francisco's 7-foot-11 star, who won the league's scoring championship this year with 3,866 points compared to his record 4,029 of 1962, was not named to the National Basketball Association's 1963 first All-Star team announced Thursday.

The first team laurels went to Elgin Baylor and Jerry West of the Los Angeles Lakers, Bill Russell of the Boston Celtics, Bob Pettit of the St. Louis Hawks and Oscar Robertson of the Cincinnati Royals. Baylor was the only unanimous choice in the voting conducted by Maurice Podoloff, NBA president, among 85 sports writers and broadcasters in the league's nine cities.

Chamberlain was named on the second team along with Boston's Bob Cousy and Tom Heinsohn, Detroit's Bailey Howell and Syracuse's Hal Greer. First team players each will receive $200, those on the second team each get $100.

Terry Dischinger of Chicago was voted the Rookie of the Year over Boston's John Havlicek and Detroit's Dave DeBusschere and thus earned a $200 bonus.

Wauwatosa East Tires Olson as Grid Coach

Opposition Grows To Oleo Tax Repeal

Sparta Senator Vows Filibuster If Bill Goes Through Assembly; Sees 'Rich Getting Richer'

MADISON (AP)—Proposals to repeal the 15 cents a pound tax on oleomargarine and allow sale of colored oleo would face a filibuster in the Senate if they ever get through the Assembly.

This warning was given the Assembly Commerce and Manufacturers Committee Thursday by Sen. Earl Leverich, R-Sparta. Leverich led the 1931 legislative fight to enact the oleo tax laws.

He told the committee he opposes the present bills because "they'll make rich men richer and the farmers poorer."

Then Leverich retired to the sidelines, saying, "Now I'm going to save my breath in case it's needed later."

1-Man Filibuster

His reference here was to his one-man filibuster against similar proposals in 1961. Leverich tied the last day of that session into knots by holding the floor for seven hours. He stopped orating only when the Senate agreed to adjourn without passing the measure, which had been approved by the Assembly 54-39.

The large delegation of farmers opposing the measures included Milo Swanton of the Wisconsin Council of Agricultural Cooperatives, Oscar Christianson of the Wisconsin Creameries Association, William KasaKaitas of the Wisconsin Farm Bureau, Paul Affeldt of the Pure Milk Products Cooperative, and the Farmers Union.

Only two persons spoke for the bills.

Assemblyman Earl Warren, D-Racine, said farmers are being misled in opposing elimination of the oleo tax.

It Is Bootlegged

Warren claimed 64,000 pounds of oleo "is bootlegged into the state every week."

And A. E. Madler of the Wisconsin Food and Tobacco Institute, including wholesale grocers, told the committee oleo tax and license fee collections have dropped from $1 million a year to $285,000.

"Those who need oleo for their physical well being or who want to use it should be able to do so without being forced to become criminals," Madler said.

Several farmers echoed Affeldt's demand to know why the present law isn't enforced. He said the state should "make a lesson out of a few of 'em and that will stop the rest."

When the dairymen said the state should crack down on those who smuggle oleo into the state, Leverich announced he is preparing legislation on that subject.

New Jersey Governor Voices Wish to Will His Eyes to Eyebank

TRENTON, N.J. (AP) — Gov. Richard J. Hughes said Thursday he would like his eyes given to an eyebank after death.

He told a news conference that some members of his family also hope to will their eyes.

The governor praised an assembly bill which would clear away some of the legal obstacles in the way of a person wishing to leave his eyes for transplantation.

"It is a very good, wise and merciful bill," Hughes said.

"I personally want to leave my eyes," he said, "although one of them is not so good."

Bidault Faces Little Except Bleak Oblivion

3 Choices Await Former Premier Now in Germany

BY RICHARD O'REGAN

STEINEBACH, Germany (AP) — Georges Bidault gives the impression of a tragic, hunted exile with little prospect except political oblivion.

He is wanted by the French government and unwanted by its unwilling protectors in Germany. Bidault faces three choices within a few days. None of them gives him much hope of regaining the stature he once had as a distinguished French leader.

Remain in Germany

He can remain in Germany and give up political activity against his former friend and present enemy, Charles de Gaulle. If he stays, he will have to abandon in fact—even if not in name—the leadership he claims to have over the movement to overthrow De Gaulle.

He can allow himself to be deported from Germany. In this case, he may, like certain members of the terrorist French Secret Army, find himself wandering from country to country, seeking a refuge where he might operate in the open against his adversary.

Or he can decide to try to escape German police, flee Germany, and resume his clandestine wanderings about Europe. He would have to enter another country illegally and would be hunted by French secret agents.

Bidault says he leads the Council of National Resistance, an organization regarded as the political arm of the secret army which has tried to assassinate De Gaulle.

'I Am the Boss'

"I am the boss of the CNR, you understand the word—the boss! The boss!" he shouted almost incoherently a few days ago, as if his word was doubted.

He is charged in France with being a member of a clandestine organization which has been ordered dissolved because it is plotting against the security of the state. This is not a capital offense. He has not been accused of trying to kill De Gaulle, a crime punishable by death.

Advanced Atlas Passes Tests

VANDERBERG AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP)—The Air Force says an advance F model Atlas has passed a 4,000-mile research test.

The 65-foot-tall missile roared out over the Pacific to an undisclosed target area Thursday. The launch took only about a minute after the Atlas was elevated from its underground silo.

The delay was for a final electronic check.

Unlike the currently operational Atlases, the advance F models can be fueled ahead of time and stored in armored pits. The earlier models are stored on the surface. They have to be fueled after an alert, an operation that takes about 15 minutes.

President Sees Peril as Nuclear Nations Grow

Fears There May be 10 in World by End of Decade

BY JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy says he is "haunted by the feeling" that there may be 10 nuclear powers in the world by 1970, more than double the present number. By 1975, he fears, the total may be 15 or 20 nations with nuclear weapons.

The President gave these rough estimates of the potential spread of weapons in discussing at his news conference Thursday night the reason why he intends to keep working for an agreement with the Soviet Union to ban all nuclear weapon tests.

He pictured a world of the not-to-distant future in which the risk of devastating warfare would be vastly increased because the ability to use mass destruction weapons will no longer be controlled by the United States, the Soviet Union and Britain.

U. S. Demands Cut

"I see the possibility in the 1970s," he said, "of the president of the United States having to face a world in which 15 or 20 or 25 nations may have these weapons. I regard that as the greatest possible danger and hazard."

Kennedy conceded that his hopes for a test ban agreement with the Soviet Union have been dimmed by recent developments. They were high last December and January after Premier Khrushchev, in the wake of the Cuban crisis, agreed to the principle of on-site inspections to enforce a test ban though he limited the number of such inspections the Soviet Union to two or three.

The United States has reduced its demands progressively from 20 such inspections a couple of years ago to a present total of seven. Since Khrushchev's offer of two or three was put on a take it or leave it basis, the nuclear test talks which started so hopefully in January have once more fallen into a familiar deadlock.

But Kennedy said he would not give up hope, especially when the difference is between seven and three inspections, so far as this particular issue is concerned.

"We have come this far," he said, "and I think that we ought to stay at it."

Vote Where You Sleep, Rules Florida Official

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — When a voter's home is split squarely down the middle by an election precinct line, he should vote in the district in which he sleeps, says Atty. Gen. Richard Ervin.

Ervin's ruling Thursday said neither he nor Florida's courts ever had been presented the question until a county registration official posed it recently.

"I'll be with you in a moment. Wait'll I get through with my cigarette."

He tossed the cigarette to the floor and sat down as guards strapped him into the death chair. He was still smiling when the traditional black hood was lowered over his face.

For his last meal, Wood ordered three fried eggs with bacon, stewed tomatoes, vanilla ice cream and tea.

Wood made no secret of his lust for death—the death of others as well as his own.

"I'd use anything I could get my hands on just so long as I could kill," he said.

On Dec. 7, 1961, just before a judge passed the mandatory death sentence, Wood started the courtroom by smirking and declaring: "I was wondering if the judge could prescribe shock treatment for me."

Ride the Lightning

5-Time Killer Laughs As He Is Electrocuted

OSSINING, N.Y. (AP) — Five-time killer Frederick C. Wood was executed in Sing Sing Prison's electric chair Thursday night after anticipating death with a wise crack and a smile.

To the end, Wood repudiated the efforts of persons he termed "do gooders" to gain him a reprieve. A derelict who had spent 30 of his 51 years in prison, Wood said he had no wish for further life behind bars.

Instead, he pleaded for an opportunity to "ride the lightning" of the electric chair.

Wood arrived for his "ride" at 10:01 p.m. four minutes later he had come to the end of the journey.

As he entered the death house of the prison 35 miles north of New York City Wood looked around and cracked to the witnesses.

"I have a speech to make on an educational project. You will see the effect of electricity on Wood. Enjoy yourself."

Then, laughing, Wood walked to the electric chair with a cigarette dangling from his mouth, brushed the chair off with his hand and calmly told the assemblage.

Women Lawmakers in Arizona on Warpath

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — The nine women of the Arizona House of Representatives are on the warpath.

The top of the speaker's rostrum was covered Thursday with handbags of all shapes and sizes.

A sign on the rostrum read: "House Memorial 3 on the debate calendar or else." It was signed, "The Women."

House Memorial 3 urges Congress to repeal the luxury tax on the sale of handbags. The women claim handbags are the same as pockets in a man's trousers and thus a necessity, not a luxury.

Recommend Death for Bill to Lower Voting Age From 21 to 18

Youngest Member Votes Against Plan Backed by Oldest Lawmaker

MADISON (AP)—The Assembly Elections committee voted 4-3 in executive session Thursday to recommend killing a bill that would lower the voting age from 21 to 18.

Assemblyman William Steiger, R-Oshkosh, committee chairman, and at 24 youngest member of the Legislature, voted against the bill, which is sponsored by Hugh Harper, R-Lancaster, 77, oldest member of the Legislature.

Prior to the executive session the committee heard testimony on resolutions to amend the Constitution to provide longer terms for the five state constitutional officers and legislators, to have the candidates for governor and lieutenant governor of each party run on the same ballot, and proposals to make the other three officers appointive.

Identical resolutions were heard by the Senate Judiciary Committee at another meeting Thursday.

Prisoner Who Escaped Racine Jail Captured

RACINE (AP)—Racine County authorities said today that Melvin Barnes, who escaped from the county jail Feb. 24, was being held in St. Louis on a car theft charge.

Barnes, 34, of Chicago, fled the jail with $115 belonging to other inmates after obtaining a set of keys to the building. Some time later he sent the keys back here, where he had been arrested on a burglary charge, in an envelope on which authorities had to pay 32 cents due for postage.

Doctors Ask Freedom for Jane Dakin

MAUSTON (AP)—Two psychiatrists said Thursday that Elizabeth Jane Dakin, 21, should be released from a mental hospital where she has been a patient since June of 1959 when a jury found her innocent by reason of insanity of first degree murder in the slaying of her parents.

The girl's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Dakin, were shot to death in their Mauston home Dec. 1, 1958. She seeks release from Winnebago State Hospital where she has been confined.

Thursday's hearing before Circuit Judge Bruce Beilfuss was closed to the public but newsmen were permitted to attend. The hearing continued today.

Out-Patient Care

Dr. Albert A. Lorenz of Eau Claire said the girl is suffering from chronic schizophrenia but the disease is in a state of remission and she should be allowed out-patient psychiatric care.

"She's an extremely intelligent girl," Lorenz said, "and should be allowed to prove herself now while this disease is in a state of remission. At the moment she is mentally ill, but not insane, in the legal definition of insanity."

Dr. Mary Kubiak of the state hospital, said she had no doubt about the girl's mental responsibility and does not consider her dangerous.

Miss Dakin was present at the hearing except when witnesses testified.

Priests Prepare for Latin America Reform

BY CHARLOTTE EBENER
Chicago Daily News Service

ROCCA DI PAPA, Italy — A Catholic "emergency plan for Latin America" is being put into action at the International Center for a Better World.

Sitting in the coffee bar of the modern school in the Alban hills, South American priests said they intended to use what they had learned to combat Castroism in their native countries.

About 300 priests, mostly from South America and including three Cubans, had just completed a 3-month course. They had studied everything from politics to psychiatry to television as part of the movement for a better world's attempt to produce "militant Catholics" trained for dealing with current problems.

Talk With Beatniks

A young Filipino priest had a look on existentialism in his hand. "I have to talk with beatniks," he explained. He was enthusiastic about what he had learned about how priests can work underground in communist countries. He hopes he can be a missionary in communist Asia.

A Belgian priest, Father John Fierenz, who spent five years in communist China, most of it under house arrest, gave me a lift back to Rome. He lectures on the psychology to use in dealing with communist indoctrinated people. He is now working on radio programs beamed to communist countries, including Russia.

"I found it easy to establish relations even with Chinese communist officials," he said. "Christ did not teach that capitalism is the only moral form of social organization. The communists think they are progressives. They are backward because they teach class warfare in a day when it is passe."

Preparing priests and laymen to be in the vanguard of social reform is one of the objectives of the movement for a better world.

Pity the Poor Children Who Are Dubbed With These Monickers

BY CHARLES HOUSE
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Anyone who is a new parent or about to become one is fair game for today's column fodder which should answer the usual chip-on-the-shoulder sentence: "What'll we name the baby?"

Now mind, I do not recommend the quaint monickers to be found herein but I expose them to the public gaze for the purpose of shock and to be employed as a deterrent, if possible.

The danger of fastening an incongruous John Hancock upon unresisting babies is not so great in these days of vast American conformity, but when we were more boldly individualistic we named our kids with remarkable abandon.

Girl babies of the ante bellum southland were particular targets of parents who loved euphonic titles. As a result, America had more than its share of girls named Fragoletta, Armenmayvetta, Nordanryth, Covadonga and even Dewdrop.

Our early Puritans weren't above naming offspring such things as Fight the Good Fight of Faith, Search the Scriptures, Weep Not, Kill Sin, Fly From Debate, Stand Fast on High, We Enter the Kingdom of Heaven, Faint Not and Peace of God.

At this unrewarding moment, the names John and Mary are the two most common names in the Western world. In the United States alone, there are more than 20 million persons bearing these monickers or derivations of them, like Johann and Maria.

Meaningful Names?

Time was, however, when it was Papa's duty to burden the child with meaningful names which would last or be meaningful. For example, a Seattle child was given an entourage of titles taken from the name of every one of 17 officers in father's regiment. It came out like this: Oscar William Dree Omlis Fitz Allen John Donpedro All Fonlis Mell Tare Gustafson Tittle Step Carl Carey. Out of charity it was presumed that the burdened youth would be called Oscar — for short.

Some 20 years ago, in Oklahoma, a loyal member of the Knights of Pythias named his little girl this: Loyal Lodge No. 296 Knights of Pythias Ponca City Oklahoma Smith.

Because the surname Smith is so well-distributed across the nation, many who bear it seek to give a distinctive first name to their young'ns. A fractional distinction of this kind was placed upon a child in Georgia: — Willie 1/2 Smith. 1/2's father reasoned with some degree of accuracy that the child would probably not be confused with some other non-fractional Smith and it is nice to think that he was probably correct.

A Milwaukee friend of mine bears the wholesome, unsingular name of John Smith, and poor John was tempted to change his name during the period of his honeymoon. When he checked into a hotel with his new bride, eyebrows were always lifted. But he braved it out even though he was embarrassed each time he registered.

Southern Monickers

I don't know if the Joneses, Jacksons or Browns have similar difficulties, but I do know that in the South there are three peo-

Placement Picture Bright For State College Grads

OSHKOSH — Dr. David Bowman, placement director for Oshkosh State College, described the placement of graduates for the 1961-62 season as a bright one. Placement of students available for teaching assignments was 100 per cent and more and more liberal arts graduates are using the college placement service, he said in his annual report released this week.

Companies and agencies contacting the placement office for liberal arts graduates include major companies on both the state and national levels in addition to state and federal governments.

Average starting salaries for liberal arts graduates who used the placement office or reported activities to it were $4,825 in-state and $5,733 out-of-state.

Salaries
Average salaries for those accepting teaching positions in Wisconsin were $4,677 in lower elementary education; $4,742 in upper elementary education; and $4,718 in secondary education. Men's salaries averaged $87 more than women's in elementary education and $113 more in secondary education.

Most graduates available for teaching assignments accepted positions within Wisconsin. Twenty-three accepted out-of-state teaching positions. Average starting salaries for these out-of-state teachers were $5,035 in lower elementary education; $4,730 in upper elementary education; and $4,884 in secondary education.

In addition to placement services for 1961-62 graduates, the placement office assisted 97 alumni in establishing themselves in new positions.

No Qat Hangovers, Vows Yemen Police

ADEN (AP) — Yemen police have been ordered to crack down on government employees trying to get happy on Qat leaves on office time. San'a Radio said today.

Qat, a shrub grown in Yemen and Ethiopia, is said to have narcotic effects.

British authorities outlawed Qat in Aden six years ago and caused an uproar. The ban was lifted after an inquiry commission found insufficient evidence that the shrub was harmful.

OSHKOSH — Fire caused about $150 damage to the automobile of Alfred Van Camp, 815 Edgewood Drive, Appleton, at 12:20 p.m. Thursday at U.S. 41 and N. Lake Street in the Town of Menasha.

The right rear tire of the car caught fire, and county police kept the blaze under control with fire extinguishers until the rural Neenah-Menasha Fire Department arrived. Van Camp, his wife, and their four children escaped without injury.

News Conference Non-Incendiary

Kennedy Didn't Irritate Anyone Except, Possibly, Fidel Castro

BY JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP)—It snowed in the Washington area in the morning. Then it was cool all day. President Kennedy let it stay that way.

For two years Kennedy, like President Eisenhower before him, has been using a kind of verbal fire extinguisher to keep the heat down.

This doesn't make for lively news conferences but it helps the President avoid fights.

At his news conference Thursday night Kennedy didn't irritate anyone except perhaps Fidel Castro.

Much of the conference was based on hope, a word that ran all through it.

Kennedy said he hoped more Russians would leave Cuba; that he could visit Berlin when he visits West Germany; that the New York newspaper strike will end soon, and that a NATO nuclear force can be established in Europe.

Declines Fight
The President declined an excellent chance to get embroiled with his old friends in Congress when asked how he felt about the Senate investigation of the TFX fighter plane contract.

This contract, with the approval of Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, went to the General Dynamics Corp. instead of the low bidder, Boeing Co. in Seattle. Wash. About $6.5 billion are involved.

McNamara was asked how come by a committee headed by Sen. John McClellan, D-Ark. McNamara said it saved the government money. This didn't satisfy the committee. It went on digging.

McNamara said this was undemocratic morale in the Pentagon. And Thursday Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., not only agreed with him but backed him.

Kennedy was completely non-incendiary. He said he thought McNamara was a fine secretary and had done the right thing. He also said the investigation was not only all right but would find McNamara was, too.

Korean Military
In Korea the military rulers, to the displeasure of Koreans who want elections and civilian rule, indicated a desire to stay in charge another four years.

This is a sore subject, particularly since Koreans remember the United States supported the dictatorship of President Syngman Rhee before he was tossed out.

Kennedy was asked his views on the situation now. He said conditions there now are "in flux" and he doubted "anything I would say on it would be helpful, at least this week."

If this disappointed the Korean civilians at least Kennedy didn't back the army officers, either.

Last Dec. 29 Kennedy went to Miami to address members of the Cuban brigade ransomed from Castro's prisons where they had lain since their futile Bay of Pigs invasion in 1961.

Day of Freedom
While making no provisions of U.S. armed invasion of Cuba, the President urged a wildly cheering crowd of refugees to prepare for the day of freedom.

He didn't say how to prepare. And he didn't say how the freedom was to be achieved. Nor has any other government official since then explained it.

And this week two things happened which did not add to enlightenment on the problem of how to get rid of Castro:

1. The State Department said the refugees couldn't use American bases for hit-and-run raids on Castro's domain.

2. Kennedy and six Latin American presidents, meeting in Costa Rica, issued a statement which said they "had no doubt" Cuba would be freed from communism.

Since this statement didn't say how, either, Kennedy was asked Thursday what it meant.

He said "I think the strong conviction is that the people of Latin America want to be free."

Thursday's was not one of the most exciting news conferences in recent years.

Black Creek Man Collapses, Dies While at Work

Roman A. Sievert, 49, Black Creek, collapsed and died Wednesday afternoon as he worked as a mechanic in the Murphy Construction Co. garage in Black Creek.

Outagamie County Coroner Bernard H. Kemps and Sheriff Calvin Spice said death was due to natural causes. Kemps said an autopsy performed at an Appleton hospital Wednesday night showed Sievert died of a heart attack.

Sievert began work at the construction company garage about 7 a.m. Wednesday. About 3:30 p.m., he and another mechanic, Glen Allen, Black Creek, were going to work on a truck. Allen went to the truck and when Sievert did not show up, he looked for him and found him on the floor in the rest room.

Rep. Reuss Presents Dairy Program Bill

BY FRANCES McKUSICK
Post-Crescent Washington Bureau

There is as much disagreement today as there has been in the past over the type of program which would best aid the dairy farmer.

Wisconsin congressmen played a big part in the initial day of hearings on dairy legislation before a House agriculture subcommittee.

Rep. Lester R. Johnson, Black River Falls, presided over the hearings.

Rep. Henry R. Reuss, Milwaukee, proposed a bill which he said he had prepared with the help of experts from the University of Wisconsin, the Department of Agriculture, the Library of Congress and a number of farm organizations.

Voluntary Plan

The Reuss bill would authorize a one-year, voluntary plan in lieu of a permanent program which would "maintain dairy incomes by direct payments to dairy farmers, reduce milk prices and dairy support costs to the Federal Government."

Outagamie Banks To Honor Farmers

Cooperative Leader Will Speak at Dinner for Progressive County Families

The Outagamie County Bankers Association Tuesday will recognize the 20 progressive farm families of Outagamie County at a dinner and program at noon at St. Nicholas Catholic Church, Freedom.

Sixty farmers representing 20 townships of Outagamie County have been judging 70 farm families in the last two months. Three farmer judges along with one of the bankers selected a single progressive family to represent a township.

Master of ceremonies will be Fred Hoffman, president of the Soil Conservation Improvement Association.

Truman Torgeson, manager of Lake to Lake Cooperative, Manitowoc, will address the group. His topic will be "From the Land of Kangaroos."

Present Awards

The Rev. Alfred Hietpas, pastor of the Freedom church, will give the invocation. Harold Schmichel, chairman of the Outagamie County Soil and Water Conservation District, and Gordon Bubolz, chairman of the Wolf River Basin Regional Plan Commission, will introduce district supervisors.

Minott Silliman Jr., assistant state conservationist, and Randal Briggs, area conservationist of the Soil Conservation Service, will give short addresses.

Richard Herrema, president of the banker association, will name the farm families. Vern Geiger, SCS county director, will present awards.

Many of the judges have been past winners of the banker award. These judges did not attempt to pick the best farm, the best farm family nor the farm family who had made the most money, Geiger said.

They did try to pick, in their judgment, the farm family which

February Index Of Prices Below January

Milk Money Paid State Farmers Is Lowest Since 1959

MADISON — Wisconsin's index of prices received by Wisconsin farmers for products sold in February was one per cent below January and more than four per cent under the February, 1962, level, according to the Wisconsin Crop Reporting Service.

Farm commodity price index figures show decreases for milk and meat animals, but higher prices than in January for poultry, eggs, and crops. Compared with February of last year, prices were off five per cent for milk and six per cent for meat animals. Gains of six per cent for eggs and four per cent for crops were reported.

Prices received for milk sold by farmers in February averaged $3.35 a hundred pounds for milk of average test. This price is five cents below January and 20 cents below February of last year. Milk prices continue the lowest since 1959.

Prices received by farmers for hogs, beef cattle, and calves averaged lower than in February of last year while higher prices were received for sheep and lambs. No change from February of last year is shown in turkey prices but farm chicken and egg prices were higher.

12 Million Cases

Sweet Corn Harvest in State Called Abundant

That "abundant harvest" which we in America have come to expect each year brought a whopping sweet corn crop to Wisconsin in 1962. The result was a 10 per cent increase in production in the state—12 million cases of whole and cream style canned corn or 288,000,000 16 ounce cans.

Now with warehouses bulging, efforts are being made to move the production from the canning factory to the consumer's pantry via a retail promotion program Jan. 21 to Feb. 2. The Wisconsin Department of Agriculture and the Wisconsin Canners' Association, along with many retail outlets have designated the period as "Canned Corn Carnival Time". Consumers will have an opportunity to stock their larders at substantial savings during the two-week promotion.

The sales event was planned, according to Wisconsin Department of Agriculture Markets Division specialists, as the result of a request by the Wisconsin canners' group. Retailers were consulted for timing and all food outlets have been appraised of the event.

Newspapers, radio and television stations will be used in the promotion. Food editors have indicated their cooperation and a colorful recipe folder featuring canned corn recipes has been made available. It can be secured without charge by writing to the Markets Division of the Wisconsin Department of Agriculture, State Capitol, Madison 2.

'Busy Beavers' Plan Parent Night Program

Bushel Law Changed in State

The designation of quantity of seed in a container and pricing procedures have been changed for Wisconsin farmers.

The last legislature abolished the law which stated "32 pounds constituted a bushel of oats."

As a result, the seed trade will need to package, label and price on a pound basis. This will change container sizes.

Farmers have been warned to check the net weight as stated on a container along with germination and purity.

The former law was abolished because new varieties of oats are heavier and require lesser amounts to make a bushel.

The principal speaker will be Floyd Hedlund, director of the

Recommended Oat Varieties Listed in UW Pamphlet

The University of Wisconsin Department of agronomy has published its annual listing of oat varieties for 1963 based on soil fertility.

The leaflet, available at Fox Valley area county extension offices, lists the best varieties and their characteristics, disease reaction, experiment station area yields and yield in county nurseries.

The university warns farmers to consider fertility level and soil type before selecting seed. If the soil is heavy with high fertility, where lodging usually is a problem, the pamphlet recommends a group from the rich soil selection.

Varieties that yield well under high fertility do not usually perform well with low fertility, the UW says. Farmers also are warned to obtain certified seed. For high quality, farmers should look for the blue tag with the red "W" on it.

Oat varieties for rich soils are Goodfield, Clintland 60, Dogde, Garland and Minhafer. For average soils Beedee, Burnett, Garry (also for rich soil) and Sauk are recommended. Ajax, Branch and Portage are recommended for medium to low fertility soils.

4-H Music Festival Set

Program Planned At Waupaca High School April 2

WAUPACA — Members of 4-H clubs in Waupaca County are preparing for the annual 4-H Music Festival April 2 at Waupaca High School, according to E. G. Hoye, county 4-H agent.

The festival is under the direction of the adult leaders' drama committee, consisting of Mrs.

Kenneth Bleck, New London; Mrs. Leo Beyers, Manawa, and Miss Evelyn Kapitzke, Weyauwega, and Hoye.

Two or more members of each club can participate in vocal, instrumental, novelette or dance divisions. The top two winners in each division will represent the county in the district contest April 16 at Wausau.

Perform in Madison

Winners of the district contest are eligible to be selected to perform at the "Friends of the 4-H Banquet" in Madison. Last year, Judy and Jean Paulson and Beverly Sorenson, vocalists, winners of the district contest, were selected to perform in Madison. The trio was from the Casey Lake 4-H Club.

The county also had a unit perform in Madison in 1960. It consisted of James Riske, Elizabeth and Margaret Pethke and Robert Beversdorf, an accordion quartet from Symco 4-H Club.

Go For's Meeting

NAVARINO — The Go For's 4-H Club met recently at the Ray Christianson home. New project material was distributed and work discussed. Mrs. Avery Wilber was appointed leader for the food and nutrition project.

Avoid Drastic Pruning

Sub-Zero Weather Damages Evergreens

MADISON — As spring approaches there already is evidence of injury to ornamental evergreens and other trees and shrubs as the result of the rigorous winter we have just experienced. Arthur Kurtz, chief of the plant industry division of the Wisconsin Department of Agriculture, said.

Severe sunscald of evergreens can be laid to relatively dry winters accompanied by bright days and drying winds during periods when soil moisture is frozen and not available to the plants or trees, Kurtz stated.

Department pathologists suggest the use of shields of burlap, lath or a similar material constructed around specimen evergreens. This will help reduce winter drying, which continues until all frost is out of the ground. The department also advised against drastic pruning and heavy spring applications of commercial fertilizer in an attempt to restore a winter-injured tree to its healthy appearance.

Careful Selection

"A moderately pruned tree will recover more quickly from winter damage than one severely pruned," Kurtz said. "Moderate applications of fertilizer following pruning will encourage the formation of new tissues if adequate moisture is maintained."

Trees and shrubs, other than evergreens, also may have been injured as the result of a mild, late fall followed by prolonged periods of sub-zero weather. The true extent of damage cannot be assessed until spring is here, the department noted.

It also was pointed out it is important to select varieties of nursery stock adapted to withstand Wisconsin winters.

Report '62 Fall Customs Rates

Survey Guide For Wisconsin Farm Operations

Results of the 1962 fall custom rates survey are presented in the accompanying table. This special survey is conducted each spring and fall by the Wisconsin Department of Agriculture to provide custom rate guidelines for Wisconsin farmers.

Custom work has gradually increased in Wisconsin to a point where it is now an integral part of many farm businesses. Mainly responsible for the growth of custom work is the large capital investment required for most modern farm equipment coupled with the increased availability of hired machines.

The men who have been on the 30 judging teams also have learned what other farmers are doing outside of their immediate area that can be put to use on their own farms.

Many of the families visited by the judges have appreciated being judged. In many cases it has pointed out to them where improvements may be made in the operation of their farm business, Geiger said.

Coon Creek Watershed, the nation's first large-scale demonstration of soil and water conservation, will highlight the event. Other features on the program include grain harvest, second crop hay harvest, low moisture silage, tobacco production and farm equipments displays.

Bus, Wagon Tours

Headquarters and tent city for the state's biggest agricultural event will be at the fair grounds at Viroqua. Bus tours will take visitors to watershed structures and to Tri-State Breeders Co-operative at nearby Westby. Wagon trains will take visitors onto the strip-cropped county farm adjacent to the fairgrounds where a number of field exhibits are planned.

Carlyle Ellefson, chairman of the 1963 event in Viroqua, and Willard Werth, Vernon County agricultural agent and executive secretary of Farm Progress Days this year, explained their plans at a recent meeting of the state board of directors in Madison.

The board also heard a preliminary report from committee members in Dodge County where the event will be held in 1964. The Dodge County group plans a corn harvest theme and have set dates of Oct. 6-8.

Marketing Theme

In other action the board accepted a proposal from Manitowoc County to hold the event in 1965. The theme will be on marketing of agricultural products. Dates have not been set.

The board re-elected H. L. Ahlgren, associate director of co-operative extension in Wisconsin, as its chairman; and Art Kurtz, director of the plant industry division, State Department of Agriculture, as vice chairman. They also named R. C. Swanson, University of Wisconsin extension specialist in farm safety as secretary-treasurer, to replace the late F. V. Burcalow. The state board is made up of representatives from public agricultural agencies.

March 1963, with no penalties imposed on those who did not conform.

It would provide direct income support payments to cooperators each quarter to make up the difference between the average market price for manufacturing milk and 90 per cent of parity, with a sliding scale of payment to maintain incomes for farmers who sell part of their output as fluid milk.

Income support payments would be limited to the first 400,000 pounds of marketings of manufacturing milk, in order to limit maximum benefits to farms with about 40 cows.

A minimum mandatory support level for milk would be set at 65 per cent of parity, with no mandatory support level for butterfat.

The Reuss program, its author claimed, would result in the farmer earning $3.14 per hundred-weight for marketing 200,000 pounds of manufacturing milk. The congressman also told the committee that consumers would save about 12 cents a pound on butter, and the government could dispose of an estimated surplus of 9.8 billion pounds of milk products in the year following initiation of the program.

It was the second year in succession that a new output record was established. The 1962 yield was eight per cent above the 1961 previous high total, and was about 42 per cent higher than the average of production for the previous decade, according to the calculations of the state economists.

Processing

Michigan with 120,000 tons easily maintained its leading position in the industry, and accounted for about two thirds of the national sour cherry crop. Wisconsin with about 13.5 thousands of tons was third, following New York with 18.5 thousands of tons.

About 95 per cent of the crop is processed, which permits more orderly marketing and the devel-

Tell Advantages Of Grain Program

Growers who participate in the 1963 feed grain program will have the following four advantages, according to Bert Weyenberg, chairman, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation County Committee:

1) Price support will be available for the production of corn, grain sorghum and barley; 2) a substantial income from acres diverted is assured, regardless of drought, flood, insects, hail or crop disease; 3) price-support payment on established yield is assured; and 4) advance payment of part of the diversion payment will be made at the participant's request.

Growers reduce acreage of corn, grain sorghum and barley by at least 20 per cent of their farms' feed grain base acreage.

*DOC SAYS:

"Dairy Leaders Stress Need for Strong Co-ops"

"Dairy farming growth in Wisconsin in the past proves that much of the strength needed in the future lies in maintaining strong farmer-member-owned dairy operating cooperatives. We can't afford to let a $600 million dairy farm gross income wither away."—Percy Hardiman, Hartland, dairy farmer and president Wisconsin Farm Bureau.

"Milk prices to farmers too low? That's true. Yet current farm milk prices reflect consumer demand. Dairy farmers loyal to the cooperatives they own must help rebuild faith in milk as 'Nature's most nearly perfect food'."—Lyman McKee, Madison dairy farmer and president Madison Milk Producers Cooperative.

"Dairy farmers must continue to rely on the competitive ability of their own operating cooperatives to process and market milk and dairy products for the best possible dollar return."—Truman Torgerson, Manitowoc, Manager Lake to Lake Dairy Cooperative.

Order Names Rolvaag Victor In Minnesota

Andersen May Issue Statement Saying If He Will Appeal

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP)—Democrat Karl Rolvaag is the duly elected governor of Minnesota, three judges who supervised a recount of the more than million and a quarter ballots cast in the Nov. 6 election said in a formal order late Thursday.

Republican Gov. Elmer L. Andersen indicated he might have a statement today on whether the finding would be appealed to the Minnesota Supreme Court. The recount showed him loser to Rolvaag by 91 votes.

The judges ordered that, barring an appeal, a certificate to election be issued to Rolvaag on April 1, which would mean he could take office the next day.

That 10-day lag could be shortened should Andersen decide against an appeal and sign a court agreement to that effect.

Further Delay Probable

If an appeal is made, at least another month would be required for the necessary briefs and arguments. This would carry the change in governors well beyond the April 22 adjournment target of the current legislature.

Andersen has remained in office under a state law requiring that his successor be "duly elected and qualified" before he steps down.

Rolvaag expressed himself as naturally pleased by the verdict. In a statement Thursday night he praised the judges, ballot inspectors and attorneys involved with the recount proceedings.

The original tabulation of the state canvassing board in late November had given Andersen the governorship by a 148-vote margin.

But the recount judges found the actual tally was: Rolvaag 619,842, Andersen 619,751. And they said in one paragraph of the decision that the recount was "as accurate and reliable as any statewide canvass possibly could be."

District Judges J. H. Sylvestre, Crookston; Sidney Kaner, Duluth; and Leonard Keyes spent three weeks and two days ruling on disputed ballots before signing their formal order.

The final verdict was foreshadowed Tuesday when the panel denied a motion by Andersen to throw the recount figures on grounds they were no more valid than the canvassing board tabulation.

memorandum with McClellan rejecting its charges and caustically declaring he would call off the hearings if the Senate would pass a resolution ordering him to "cease and desist."

Hot words flew in the hearing room itself as the subcommittee received testimony first from Deputy Secretary of Defense Roswell L. Gilpatrick, then from McNamara himself.

Carries Many Documents

The secretary went into the hearing room armed with suitcases crammed with documents. He elaborated on a sworn statement he had submitted last week, was asked a few questions, and then released pending recall for lengthy questioning after the subcommittee has compiled the rest of its evidence. A transcript of his testimony was to be released, possibly after being censored, later in the day.

All the hearings on the TFX have been closed with transcripts of testimony made public after they have been stripped of any classified military information.

Overruled by Civilian

Testimony has been introduced that military boards had picked the Boeing proposals promising the cheaper and better plane but were overruled by the civilian secretaries.

In his statement, McNamara said the General Dynamics plan would use more of the same components for both Air Force and Navy versions of the TFX, thus saving more money.

The Pentagon leaked the critical Air Force memorandum as Gilpatrick was striving to calm subcommittee anger over an anonymous Pentagon spokesman's weekend statement to newsmen charging that Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., and McClellan had maneuvered the department into an unfavorable position in the hearings.

Denies Statement

Gilpatrick acknowledged he was one of the anonymous spokesmen who had talked to about 14 newsmen, but he denied making the statements reported by the newsmen. He insisted he has been unable to learn who had made them.

Word of the charges of abuse of witnesses reached senators in the hearing room, in the midst of Gilpatrick's testimony.

Mundt told the deputy secretary it was a "declaration of war" the of $10.2 billion, "I would accept that."

Under present conditions, he argued, the administration proposes a proper balance between lower taxes and higher spending on "what we regard as essential programs."

Also in the domestic field, the President said there is nothing to reports that Postmaster General J. Edward Day will resign before 1964 election.

Discussing the San Jose conference, Kennedy noted that he and his fellow presidents agreed to do more to promote the economic development of Central America and Panama, and to impose new curbs on the importation of subversion from Cuba.

No Drastic Proposals

Kennedy was asked about re-subcommittee was prepared to meet. Gilpatrick denied any connection with the incident. McNamara was reported to have testified later that he had not intended the memo to be leaked out.

Gilpatrick testified he was not charging that any newsmen had misquoted him. He said they might have "misinterpreted or misconstrued" what he had told them.

Defends Conduct

Gilpatrick himself raised the subject of the subcommittee's staff studies of relations between General Dynamics and Gilpatrick's former law firm, Chavath, Swaine & Moore of New York.

The deputy secretary volunteered a statement picturing his conduct as having been carefully correct. He said he had performed legal work as a member of the firm for both Boeing and General Dynamics when not in government service, but never in connection with defense contracts. He said officials of both companies are among his friends, but this would not influence his official judgments in any way.

McClellan, in a stern lecture, said he personally had not questioned whether Gilpatrick might have a conflict of interest.

"Whether you have any conflict I do not know," the senator said. "I am not at the moment trying to find out."

ports the other presidents wanted to go farther than he in urging stronger measures against Cuba.

If so, Kennedy said, they made no such proposals to him. He expressed the belief that the other presidents did not think "further action, invasion or blockade at this time, would be fruitful."

Also on the subject of Cuba, Kennedy said he has no information to indicate that reported raids on Soviet positions in Cuba by a refugee group called Alpha 66 were launched from the United States, Kennedy said. "We do not feel that these kinds of raids serve a useful purpose" and may do positive mischief by bringing on repressive measures in Cuba.

"These men do not have a connection with the U.S. government," he said.

Plans Berlin Visit

In discussing other facets of the international scene, Kennedy said: "He hopes to visit West Berlin."

when he travels to Italy and Germany this summer. He also said he has no plans for any new trip to Latin America this year.

The President's hopes for a nuclear test ban agreement with the Soviet Union "are somewhat dimmed" but he said the United States will continue working toward that end "because personally I am haunted by the feeling that by 1970, unless we are successful, there may be 10 nuclear powers instead of four, and by 1975, 15 or 20."

The United States "ought to know by May whether we are going to be able to make some progress" in setting up a multinational nuclear force in Western Europe.

The President sees "historic interest" but no international significance in the recent meeting between Pope John XXIII and Alexei Adzhubei, son-in-law of Soviet Premier Khrushchev.

PLYMOUTH TOPS CHEVROLET AND FORD IN ACCELERATION, HANDLING, GAS ECONOMY

You could walk into a Plymouth dealership right now and drive home in the exact model Plymouth—with identical equipment—that beat Chevrolet and Ford in 8 out of 10 tests at the Riverside Track in California. The fact is, the exact model Plymouth that performed so well at Riverside is performing just as well for thousands of satisfied new Plymouth owners across the country.

When you run down the list of tests, you discover that Plymouth had a field day—winning every acceleration test, handling and maneuverability test, both passing-safety tests, and the gas economy test. Then, following up its Riverside triumph, Plymouth won Class IV in the 1963 Pure Oil Performance Trials, turning in the highest score of any car in any class in the entire competition.

All the signs say Plymouth's on the move. And the signs are acceleration, handling, gas economy, plus good looks and a 5-year/50,000-mile warranty.* It's little wonder Plymouth sales are 42% ahead of last year!

Speaker Urges Latin American Aid

Norman Carignan Tells OSC Group of Communist Problem

OSHKOSH — "Is It Too Late" the flow of American investments in Latin America?" was the topic of Oshkosh State College's fifth Pan American Week program Thursday evening at Hotel Athearn.

"We have a large stake in the future of those countries," he explained. "The restlessness of the people derives from the severity of their problems and their growing impatience for better living standards."

He said no other area is receiving more business and political attention than Latin America and talked of the work of the Alliance for Progress and the role of the private sector. Leading American businessmen formed the Alliance about one year ago to devise means of stimulating

Chance of Another Contaminated Tin Called Slight

DETROIT (AP) — A tuna can from which two Detroit women ate and then died contained a rare type of seafood poisoning, but health authorities said today indications are that it was the only tainted one among thousands of pure tins.

George T. Daughters, Detroit chief of the U.S. Food and Drug Administration, said "there seems little doubt that Type E (clostridium botulinum) is the type organism involved," and added:

"It was isolated from the lid of the can in question and from the intestinal content of the first victim."

Dr. Robert J. Solomon, who treated the second victim, said he attributed her death to "botulism, and everything points to Type E."

Daughters said tests of many other cans from a suspected west coast shipment to Detroit area

Town of Cicero Officers Have No Vote Contents

NICHOLS — There will be no opposition April 2 for Town of Cicero officers. All incumbents were re-nominated at the town caucus recently.

Incumbents include Christ Roepke, chairman, Sanford Barth, clerk, Darryl Hahn, treasurer, George Barth, first supervisor, Art Miller, second supervisor, Harold Herman, constable, and Vernal Tubbs, assessor.

A&P supermarkets proved pure. So did those taken from other shipments.

There have been no other reports of botulism food poisoning in the Detroit or other areas of the country.

Daughters said FDA officials are unable to explain how only one can was contaminated, but told newsmen: "The chances of finding another contaminated can appear to be slight. It may be that we'll never know how only one can was involved."

(Appleton and Neenah A&P stores, like others across the country, removed A&P brands of tuna from their shelves as a precaution but none of the cans came from the suspected shipment.)

Little Chute Man Appeals Verdict In Battery Case

Willard Van Handel, 55, 903 Depot St., Little Chute, has appealed a judgment finding him guilty of battery against his sister, Mrs. Ruth Hartjes, 837 W. Grove St., last fall.

The appeal was filed in Clerk of Courts Sydney Shannon's office Wednesday. The case will go to the Circuit Court sometime during the October term, Shannon said.

A 12-man jury found Van Handel guilty March 6 after deliberating one and one-half hours. Outagamie County Judge Gustave Keller fined Van Handel $200.

In testimony, Mrs. Hartjes said her brother had beaten her, choked her, hit her head against the wall and threw her from his home into the driveway last Oct. 30. Mrs. Hartjes was hospitalized four days after the incident.

One of Van Handel's attorneys, Urban Van Susteren said he was not allowed to introduce "pertinent" evidence into the day-long trial and the jury was deliberately "left in the dark" on certain parts of the case.

School Office at Waupaca Closed

4-County Merger Set, Contract For Supervising Teacher Ends

WAUPACA — For the first time since the school systems were organized in Waupaca County, they will be without the services of a local county superintendent's office.

The office will be completely vacated by June 15 when the contract of Norman Schumann, supervising teacher, expires. Mrs. Edith A. Johnson, 902 Riverside

St., secretary to the county superintendent during the last five years, will leave her position April 1.

The closing of the local office was brought about by the merger of county superintendents' offices. Waupaca County schools, which were under the jurisdiction of the county school superintendent, are now under the jurisdiction of Otto Neumann, Gillett, who also is superintendent of schools in Oconto, Shawano and Forest counties.

Services of a supervising teacher will have to come from the Gillett office.

Mrs. Johnson, who operated a music studio before going to work as the county superintendent's secretary, said she will again give music lessons at her home beginning May 1. She also was organist at Trinity Lutheran Church for two years.

Schumann is distributing textbooks which were in the county superintendent's office to the schools still under the county superintendent's jurisdiction.

Priest Urges Farmers To Promote Rural Areas

St. Nicholas Church, Freedom, Host To 800 for Annual Catholic Observance

FREEDOM — Catholic farmers throughout the Fox Valley area Thursday heard of a new approach for solutions to problems plaguing rural areas.

The Rev. Edward O'Rourke, director of the National Catholic Rural Life Conference, Des Moines, Iowa, supported Rural Development citizen committees now operating in 2,000 counties throughout the United States.

St. Nicholas Catholic Church was host to the final Rural Life Conference in honor of the patron saint of farmers, St. Isidore. Some 800 persons attended solemn high mass, blessing of seed and soil and farm implements Wednesday. Women of the parish served dinner in two shifts to accommodate the crowd.

Improve Conditions
Father O'Rourke urged farmers to improve opportunities for farm youths. He said youths are leaving the farm for the city because they are unable to find jobs or earn enough money.

RAD committees are organized with support of government organizations, county extension agents and business and industry leaders to attract new industry and help improve living conditions.

Farmers are productive, he said, but their income is off. Those who produce in abundance should prosper, he said. But, he added, value is in goods and services. Money really is only a method of exchange.

Market Attention
He suggested areas of marketing need attention. Father O'Rourke said farmers bring to market more at one time than the market needs. He also said farmers have little bargaining power. He cited a drop in cattle and hog prices in the last year—down 30 per cent for hogs and 20 per cent for cattle—because of a slight over supply.

He cited dairy cooperatives as a point for strengthening bargaining. They have amalgamated in Wisconsin and brought about better prices, he said.

He cited three methods for disposing of over supply:
1. Increase consumption — send more food abroad in the U.S. Food for Peace program.
2. Co-production with self-help programs.

3. Reduce bad effects of over supply on price. A slight over supply is not serious because in a bad production year it can be absorbed, he said.

Father O'Rourke told his audience he was not in favor of any one farm organization. He urged farmers to follow democratic ideals and Christian principles in choosing farm organizations. Beware, he said, of illegal and immoral controls on people to keep them from membership in controversial organizations.

He then clarified his stand on why he spoke at the National Farmers Organization convention last fall. "Because I speak before a group does not mean I agree with their programs or policies," he said. He said he will accept invitations to speak before any farm group.

County Signs Contract for Storage Space

First Distribution Of Surplus Goods Expected in May

Outagamie County made room for surplus commodities Monday with the signing of a contract with a New London warehouse firm for distribution and storage of foodstuffs.

The county board last Tuesday approved $15,000 for one year's operation in the program. Welfare Director A. W. Eggert said today the first distribution may be made in May.

Included in the initial distribution would be all the welfare clients on all relief lists in the county, Eggert said. After the first distribution, others seeking food under the program will be allowed to make application to the county welfare department.

Outagamie County's share of the surplus commodities will be stored in a New London warehouse owned by Theodore Thomas. Thomas employees will do the distributing and warehouse work. The county will store 34,000 pounds of food in the warehouse monthly. Cold storage is available.

Rents Space
Thomas rents space for surplus commodities to Fond du Lac, Winnebago, Portage, Waushara, Waupaca and now Outagamie counties. Thomas owns the United Counties Distributors Co., and has been storing commodities for over a year.

Space for two new workers is being made in the welfare office in the county courthouse and job descriptions justifying the hiring of two employees have been sent to the state's bureau of job classification. Eggert will hire the employees when the job descriptions and titles are returned, along with pay schedules under which they may be hired. Office equipment has been requisitioned, Eggert said.

"The only way we will be able to police the program," Eggert said today, "is by warning all who participate that any violation will mean the end of the program." Eggert said the food included in the program "could bring badly needed nourishment to many needy people's diets."

The program will distribute dry milk, cheese, dry meats and other commodities.

More than half of the total eligible employees voted during the first 45 minutes of the election. The booth, in the county highway department garage here, was open from 2 to 5 p.m. Thursday.

MENASHA — A 33-year-old Hortonville man was reported in satisfactory condition this morning at Theda Clark Hospital in Neenah, where he was taken Monday after falling into a tank containing a mixture of 180 degree water and paper at Wisconsin Tissue Mills in Menasha.

Hospital authorities said Gerald Hoier, 33, of Hortonville, received burns to both feet when he fell in the mixture of "stock."

Hoier, a laborer for the Gambsky Construction Co. which is doing construction work at the paper plant, apparently did not see the floor-level tank and walked into it, Gambsky officials indicated.

Wisconsin Tissue Mills officials said the temperature of the tank's contents is between 160 and 180 degrees.

Prinsen said there are 73 members of the local. He said, however, he expects the membership to increase now that the union has been accepted by a majority of the employees.

Gundermann said it was a "good clean election with no campaigning." Highway department employees had a paid holiday Thursday afternoon to take part in the election.

Not eligible to vote were the highway commissioner, supervisors and confidential clerical personnel.

Catholic Rural Life Day Stresses Putting Goals in Right Place

FREEDOM — Peace for all, whether farmer or city dweller, lies in ordered equilibrium—the simple putting of things in their proper place and keeping them there, the Rev. Thaddeus Koszarek, Sacred Heart Seminary, Oneida, told farmers gathered for a Catholic Rural Life Day Thursday.

"You can have all the gold and diamonds you want, but if you have no food you die."

The richest resource on earth is that top six or eight inches of soil, he said, and God gave to the farmer the job to till it to perfection. Christ, he added, never gave to one group the right to all things, but to the farmer he gave the task of tilling land so all might benefit.

Man Needs Ideals

Christ, in the Scriptures, is quoted as saying man does not live by bread alone, the priest said. Man too needs ideals, if he is to work. Farming is a very particular vocation which leads to eternity, he said.

Too many people think man will find himself secure with more earthly organizations rather than looking up to God. All human ingenuity is worthless unless man looks to God, he said.

It seems, he said, the more concern for material security—the more unhappiness among men. Spiritual security alone will give you peace, he said. When you know what you do is right before the Creator, you have peace.

Sense of Vocation

Peace, he explained, is ordered equilibrium keeping spiritual obligations first and earthly obligations second.

Man, to succeed, needs a sense of vocation, Father Koszarek said. He must see a divine plan for life, not as an instrument but as a very important part of life.

When a man does not love his land or farm he is not a success, he said. Such a man lacks the realization of his vocation. Be proud of your work, he said.

Nason on Education

Must Find Happy Medium Between Studies and Sports Activities

BY LESLIE J. NASON, Ed. D.
Professor of Education,
University of Southern California

Dear Dr. Nason:

What can I do to improve my grades? I play so much basketball that I have no time to do my homework. When I get time to do it, I don't feel like doing it.

Should I cut down on sports and start working more on homework?

R. G., Jenks, Okla.

Learn to discipline yourself to exercise less and study more. Success in an out of school depends upon your ability to show moderation in things such as sports, eating, television, etc.

Don't allow any one thing to take over your life to the detriment of other worthwhile things.

Dear Dr. Nason:

Our daughter, Linda, is 10 years old and in the fifth grade. She has a high IQ, and receives straight A's with little effort. Very seldom brings home work unless it is a project.

The teacher has her doing errands, teaching other students how to read, assembling test papers, etc., but she still has too much time in school. She is helped at home, is a Girl Scout and belongs to the Safety Patrol.

At present the only thing we can do, according to the school, is try to keep her supplied with good books. We want her to grow up to be a well-balanced person. How can we help her?

D. S., Somers Point, N.J.

Answer:

You are very fortunate to have such a well-adjusted daughter with a teacher who takes an interest in her personal development. The help she is giving the teacher, especially that of helping other students, is very worthwhile. Relax and enjoy her.

Dear Dr. Nason:

Our son is in ninth grade. I have not been able to get him interested in reading and I feel this will keep him from doing well in English.

Everyone in our family reads. He has seen me sitting and reading all through his growing years. I had hoped he would take after me and read too. He is an avid sports fan and does read all the sports magazines, but he needs to read other books as well. He will read one or two chapters of a book and then lose interest. He plans to go to college, but he

Childish Actions Are Part of Growing Up

BY DR. EVE JONES

Dear Eve Jones: I would like some advice concerning my 12-year-old daughter. She used to make As and Bs, but now she brings home Bs and Cs. And she becomes extremely silly when her friends are visiting. She giggles and acts in such a flighty, ridiculous manner that I just want to shake her to make her stop.

When I try to tell her in a nice way how silly her behavior looks, we can't seem to stay calm. She's very critical of me and of some of her younger friends who haven't become interested in hair-dos and clothes, yet.

She simply cannot see how juvenile her own mannerisms are. Does such behavior come from a feeling of insecurity? If so, what steps can I take to help her?

Mrs. M. V. H.

Draw a deep breath and put on a brave smile — then suffer in quiet for the next two or three years. She'll settle down and act in a less juvenile manner when she's no longer so juvenile. And she'll stop being critical of you if you stop criticizing her.

If her grades drop below Cs, insist that she stop some of her nonschool activities until she brings her grades up again. But otherwise, just grin and bear it. She's only young this way once.

Sense of Security

Dear Eve Jones: I've noticed that most of my neighbor's children suck their thumbs and require a blanket at bedtime. Why?

Mrs. A. C.

Hunt for the Cause

Dear Eve Jones: Honestly, I don't see how we can be having an emotional problem with our 5-year-old boy! My wife was a schoolteacher and believes her place is in the home with our children, and we're a very close, happy family. But our son still is never dry in the morning.

We have never made an issue of the situation, and we offer all the assurance we can. He seems to want so badly to be dry. But even if we get him up at 11 p.m. when we go to bed, he doesn't stay dry. And then he asks us in the morning why we didn't take him to the bathroom. What can we do?

Mr. R. D.

Your son is well past the age where he can be "innocently" wetting the bed. If his physical health is O.K., he should be aware of what's happening to him during the night and be able to control his bladder, unless some emotional problems are operating.

Stop wasting effort trying to convince yourself that nothing can be wrong, and instead get busy discovering and correcting whatever must be wrong.

Board of Education Hears Consultant On Refinancing

IOLA — Members of Iola-Scandinavia school board met with representatives of T. G. Evenson and Associates, Inc., financial consultants, Monday to review the district financial situation and consider the possibility of refinancing district obligations.

Ernie Clark and Walter O. Jacobs of the firm's Madison office advised the State Trust Fund loan of about $116,000 at 3 1/2 per cent interest be left, but that other debts amounting to approximately $280,000 and requiring higher rates of interest be refinanced. They said it could be possible at less than 3 per cent including consultants fees. They encouraged the board to act soon to take advantage of lowest rates possible. The local district is bonded at about 5 per cent of equalized valuation, half of the legal limit of 10 per cent.

The financial consultants will meet with the Iola-Scandinavia board again next week to present alternate programs for repayment, after which the board will decide whether or not to refinance. There is no need for a special district meeting to take such action as long as the purpose is to save money and costs do not exceed present rates.

Please help me with this problem.

P. R., Savannah, Ga.

Your son sounds like a well-rounded boy. He may have built up a resistance to your pressure toward reading.

If some counselor or friend of the family could help him become interested in better grades through better study techniques to meet college entrance requirements, his reading interests and skills will improve as a side effect.

Dear Dr. Nason:

I didn't know my math very well until I really started to study, and I still don't know most of my math. My mother told me to study harder and I study a little bit harder but I still don't know it. How can I learn my math faster?

D. L. (10) Port Arthur, Tex.

Bright Spot Is Greece

Every once in awhile a bright spot appears on the gloomy, international horizon. Such is the economic recovery of Greece within the free world, meanwhile thumbing its nose at the Communists who did their best to take over.

After World War II Greece was practically destitute. Germany and Italy had made a shambles of the country from an economic as well as a military point of view. The Communists were hoping to finish the job. President Truman's decision to send in a virtual rescue mission in 1947 certainly was the single most important factor in changing things. But of course it was the ability of the Greeks to use the help that really brought them out of the morass.

Greece is still not a wealthy country by Western European standards. But its gross national product has been growing at a rate second only to that of West Germany. Its decimated fleet was rebuilt and, if all Greek-owned ships were registered under the Greek flag, it would rank as the third maritime nation in the world. It managed to get an associate membership in the Common Market which entitles it to have full access for its exports to the EEC while still applying some tariffs on imports for the next 22 years.

The United States aid to Greece totals almost $3 billion but we now send about $30 million annually, mostly for military use. There are reports that Greece may even come off the list of foreign aid recipients although that we must see to believe. But its recovery is an encouraging sign which ought to be told over and over again to the underdeveloped countries of the world.

Power of the Purse

In the recurring controversy over federal aid to education, again brought up because of the President's bill, a strong argument is made that such aid would not mean control. The argument is fallacious and should be; we would not want to see the federal government handing out the taxpayer's money willy nilly without applying standards and controls.

McGeorge Bundy, special assistant to President Kennedy and formerly dean of the faculty at Harvard, has argued persuasively in favor of more federal aid, particularly to colleges and universities, on the grounds that money is money and there probably isn't as stringent control from the federal government as there is from alumni, state governments or other sources of funds. But an editorial in the Wall Street Journal points out the stranglehold which the federal government is gaining on higher education through its control of funds. More than two-thirds of the entire nation's scientific research and development spending, a lot of it in universities, comes from the federal government. This obviously has a strong effect upon the type of research and development.

As the Post-Crescent has pointed out in the past, the National Defense Education Act is in effect a federal control of elementary and secondary education. Grants are given in the fields of science, mathematics and foreign languages, as these were construed by Congress to be of national importance. But the effect is far-reaching. Teachers in these fields can get grants for study which are denied to teachers in English, history or geography, subjects of equal importance to youngsters in school.

Congressman John Ashbrook, in opposing the extension of NDEA two years ago, pointed to a report from the Office of Education which emphasizes the vast responsibilities that office would have. "Not only is it the responsibility of the federal government to conduct the foreign affairs of the nation; it is almost equally evident that national observers are especially well qualified to assess the international deficiencies of our domestic educational system. The modern foreign language development program authorized by the NDEA is an instance of federal identification of an international need imperfectly acknowledged by local and state educational agencies. It seems to the committee axiomatic that intimate involvement of the United States in international affairs will lead to the identification of other educational needs that could hardly be so readily seen by local, state and institutional authorities."

This is a remarkable statement both in its arrogance and its fallacious conclusion. It is quite true that the availability of funds for language laboratories from the NDEA has probably meant that more schools have them. But the pressure for improved foreign language teaching originated primarily from parents and some teachers, not in the federal government. It may be quite true that Americans, once they get to Washington, lose touch with the rest of the country, but they hardly can be said to see more clearly than anyone else the needs of either the nation or education.

There is another serious problem here that must not be overlooked. The purpose of American education is not merely to advance the fortunes of the state. The purpose is to help to develop the potentials of every American youngster, whatever his abilities, interests or talents. Only in this way can the government actually represent and serve the people. But the attitude from the Office of Education would reject the American conception of the government as existing for the people rather than the people for the government. It can be seen by the NDEA grants that the immediate needs of the nation, as seen in Washington, would become the educational needs of the country.

The Wall Street Journal editorial, in pointing to the great amount of federal funds now spent on higher education, says that the federal government is well on the way to "monopolizing the campus through the sheer power of money. We never heard of a monopoly that did not control what it monopolizes."

The financing of education is no simple matter. We have never agreed with those who righteously turn down federal funds. The place to fight against their availability is when these proposals come up in Congress not on local school boards. But unless the financing is done primarily on the local and state level, our traditional education system existing for the student rather than for the nation is over the hill.

Those Foolish Cards

Sheriffs of several of the major counties of the state have again been embarrassed, including the sheriff of Dane County whose associates tend to point to their liberal courthouse establishment as a model of propriety, by the disclosure that they are issuing "courtesy cards" and similar favors to friends and political supporters.

These cards take a variety of forms, and turn out to be one of the services rendered for the dues payments of courthouse enforcement officers by the Wisconsin Sheriffs and Deputy Sheriffs Association, a kind of political trade association.

Some of them are entitled "honorary deputy" cards, and if they don't say so literally, are obviously intended to certify that the bearer is a pretty important person, indeed and anyone before whom the card is flashed probably had better beware.

"I'm a friend of the sheriff, see," is the implicit legend. "I'm not just an ordinary guy. I have some weight in this town."

We don't know the categories of beneficiaries of these favors from the elected sheriff, but we know one typical classification. Newspapermen are often offered such supposed certificates of their importance. We know, because it happened to us, once.

It was after a speech in a fairly distant locality that the friendly fellow came up to the front of the room, introduced himself as the sheriff, and handed us the card which was put into the vest pocket without immediate scrutiny. Only later did it turn out that it was a "courtesy card," inviting all to whom it was shown to extend courtesies to the owner on behalf of the sheriff of that county, which shall remain nameless.

Was it intended, perhaps, to impress the county policemen patrolling the roads in that sheriff's jurisdiction? What possible use could such a certificated message from the principal law officer of the community have for the self-respecting citizen?

We are not sure that any great harm is done through these pretentious devices. Maybe it gives the bearer the same kind of harmless vanity satisfaction that is supposed to be contained in the low auto license number. But we believe it is a foolish business, and that the man who accepts one of these cards is perhaps a little more foolish than the man who gives it. The giver has at least the purpose of picking up some votes from the unwary.

Looking Backward

'Slaves Freed to Stop the Fight'

100 YEARS AGO
Quoted from the Appleton Motor for March 26, 1863.

The 12th Wisconsin boys sent word to their Home Guard friends in the North, in the shape of resolutions, that "they do not fight to free the slaves, but free the slaves to stop the fight."

In the sense in which Thomas Jefferson and the Fathers of the Nation caused the War of the Rebellion, we who are called Republicans caused the rebellion (Civil War) of which pre-slavery Democracy (Democrats) is preeminently guilty.

The only party rivalry that is tolerable in such a time as this is a rivalry of devotion to country. Party names and purposes are only regimental colors with patriotism the banner of the whole army.

The rebellion did not refute, but confirmed the truth of Republicanism. It was simply a final chapter in the history of slave power, an advanced stage of slaveholding rapacity, naturally born of misrule, instead of tempting us to cover before it and surrender our principles, it furnished an overwhelming argument in favor of standing by them to the death.

25 YEARS AGO
Friday, March 15, 1938.

Adolf Hitler that night declared to Germany and the world that his absorption of Austria into the German realm saved thousands of lives and that "it was a pity that the democracies do not understand why and how he added Austria to the German nation."

Henry Taylor Writes

Red Invasion of Latin America Was Planned Many Years Ago

BY HENRY J. TAYLOR

Cuba's Fidel Castro, Brazil's Joao Goulart — others like them in Latin America — are only current instruments in Soviet long-term planning. This is the principle we must grasp. Without it, the daily news is thrown entirely out of focus.

Unless we lift our sights we might never as wisely quit reading.

When Hitler entered the Ruhr and then won the Sudetenland, that was daily news. The true picture behind it, however, was Nazi geopolitics; Dr. Karl Haushofer's special province in confronting the anti-Nazi world. The Ruhr and Sudetenland news was unintelligible (some thought it relatively harmless) without knowing the really immense play that was in motion behind it. Moreover, the geopolitical conception was born — and activated — many, many years earlier. This is likewise true of Soviet maneuvers today in Latin America.

IT'S QUESTION OF SPACE
Geopolitics teaches that a nation's attitude toward space rather than toward geographic boundaries, in a political sense, determines the ability of the world's leading power to survive. This and the "laws of expansion" are the basic thinking we face. It is never easy for a rising power (the USSR) to chop the leading nation down to size, but that is the Soviet geopolitical purpose.

This visualizes Soviet domination of various sorts in the strategic and flexible area extending throughout Eastern Europe, Asia, North Africa and Latin America. It outflanks Western Europe and the North American continent.

Instead of the weakness in isolated units, in a British Empire pattern, Soviet geopolitics insists on solid encirclement. The design is to subject the Atlantic community — Western Europe and North America — to a political-economic-military blockade. We brothers and sisters of the world number about three billion souls. More than two-thirds of people on earth somehow dwell in Asia. Soviet geopolitics sees there a giant hand with 12 fingers. Red China is the palm. The peninsulas and archipelagos are the fingers — Korea, Malaya, India, Indonesia, etc. The center of gravity is so great in Red China that domination of the whole hand rests there, of course: unassailable.

Yet Soviet geopolitical concentration on Latin America came as early as its China plans. This, of itself, is a vital feature for us to understand. Nothing anywhere in the world predates the Soviet geopolitical interest and active planning in Latin America.

Building Commission's Work Is Bright Spot in State Administration

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — For the first time it is possible to say that the big business of financing state institution construction has been put on a reliable and business-like basis.

There is no better proof of the vast change that has taken place in the planning and execution of the steadily increasing program of expanding educational, welfare and other institutions in an era of changing and growing population than to observe the current building commission in action. To anyone who observed the back-scratching and haphazard methods of legislative politics in dealing with these matters in earlier times, and the early floundering of the commission in more recent years, there is enormous reassurance here.

It was not so long ago that the chances of the University or the state colleges or the welfare department for getting an appropriation for a new library, or a laboratory, or a hospital or whatever depended on their ability to induce a friendly and influential legislator to introduce the bill and to maneuver it through both houses of the legislature.

Some expensive mistakes were made in that system. Those who may occasionally have wondered, for example, about the implausible geographical location of an important state facility can make a pretty good guess that somewhere in history there was a man in the legislature who had the power to make the decision and who used it.

THEN AND NOW
Today the decisions are made in an unbiased and planned way, as far as that is possible in the fallible nature of politics and politicians.

The building commission as it operates today, with a small professional staff and with delegated representatives of the legislature under the chairmanship of the governor making the decisions, is largely the creation of Joe E. Nussbaum, Gov. Nelson's principal lieutenant whose contributions to management advancement in the capitol will become clearer as the partisan struggles of his time dim in the memory. Nussbaum was Nelson's commissioner of administration and left quite voluntarily when Gov. Reynolds came into office. The political lives of reformers, he seemed to feel, are limited and expendable.

But any organization is only as good as the men who compose it, and it is fair to add that the men who run the building commission today are taking their responsibilities with the utmost seriousness. The leading legislators are those who on the legislative finance committee have made of that legislative agency the most attentive and perceptive expenditures auditing instrument the capitol has seen in decades. Out-voting Gov. Reynolds and his men, they are now obviously determined to apply the same careful scrutiny to the affairs of the building program. Not that Gov. Reynolds seems to mind. He seems pleased, in fact, that he has nominal Republican opponents so interested in this work that has gone by default in the past.

IMPORTANCE
There has been a lamentable tendency in politics and the press to down-grade the building commission as merely another little discussion board that holds its meetings in a corner of the statehouse now and again. Actually, it is one of the most powerful organizations in the government and has more real spending power than any other state government instrumentality except the legislature itself. Its cash appropriations are substantial, but more important is its power to create dummy corporations that issue bonds in multi-million dollar chunks for new structures going up at a rate never before imagined.

The current borrowing rate is probably $50 millions a year or more, and it is almost certain to increase. These loans mean commitments for interest and principal payments for many decades into the future, and tax liability for citizens who have not yet reached adulthood. Logic might dictate that the state get rid of its constitutional prohibition against bonded debt, so that such bonding can be done in a regular way. But that seems unlikely to come to pass. The building commission will borrow more, rather than less, and grow in real significance in Wisconsin government as a consequence.

Darwin Was Failure In His Father's Eyes

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Don Marquis once remarked that publishing a volume of verse is like tossing a rose petal down the Grand Canyon and listening for an echo. Writing a daily column of this sort gives one much the same feeling. One knows that it is read — the many argumentative letters alone attest to that — but whether it really changes any minds or patterns of behavior seems dubious most of the time.

Yet, the rewards, when they come, are gratifying. I cannot refrain from mentioning a recent piece of mine about the pressures put on college students — mostly on the boys — by their parents. It was a subject I felt strongly about and was familiar with.

Parents from all parts of the country responded immediately with the identical reaction: the piece made them realize they had been pressuring their boys at college, and they resolved to change their attitudes. They had been trying to relieve their own lives through their sons, and this can be done, if at all, only disastrously.

By a coincidence, as these gratifying letters began coming in, I was reading the new paperback edition of the book, "They Studied Man," by Kardiner and Preble, dealing with the great scientific and cultural figures of the last hundred years, from Darwin through Freud.

In some preface biographical material about Darwin — who undoubtedly affected the scientific, social and cultural history of the world more than any man of the 19th century, the authors devoted a wry paragraph to his youth and his schooling.

"For the first 22 years of his life," they wrote, "Darwin seemed well on his way to fulfilling the prophecy of his father that 'You care for nothing but shooting, dogs, and rat-catching, and you will be a disgrace to yourself and your family.'"

"He learned absolutely nothing" at Dr. Butler's school in Shrewsbury, withdrew from the study of medicine at Edinburgh, and was only a mediocre theological student at Cambridge. His only real interests during these years were collecting insects and shooting."

Darwin came from the most distinguished and cultivated family, on both sides. But he was not a bit interested in the law, in medicine, in the ministry, in the humanities. The world of nature fascinated him; and in that day, the word "naturalist" was hardly respectable.

His voyage on the "Beagle," which changed the cultural history of the whole world, almost didn't take place. His father was against the plan, and even though Darwin was 22 he submitted to his father's wish — until a respected uncle accidentally intervened and the lad made the momentous trip. The "failure" in every school and every subject finally found what he liked to do — and did it better than any man before him.

Common Market Has U. S. Worried

American Exports of Farm Goods To Western Europe Threatened

BY CARL HARTMAN

BRUSSELS (AP)—Western Europe's Common Market, fostered by Uncle Sam, has grown into a self-assertive teen-ager who has the old man worried.

The Common Market's system of customs duties threatens the market for American farm products in Western Europe. Its members, especially France, want to produce more of these products instead of buying them abroad.

In 1961 the United States shipped $1.6 billion worth of farm goods to the Common Market countries — France, West Germany, Italy, Belgium, Holland and Luxembourg. Preliminary figures indicate the total was even higher in 1962.

Present plans of the Common Market authorities could up this by a third or more.

Sales of American cotton and tobacco are not much threatened. Common Market members produce little of these.

After W W II

After World War II Americans were saying that Europe could get out of its vicious circle of poverty and war only if it broke down old trade barriers at national frontiers. Europeans, it was argued, should be brought into one big market so European businessmen could give the consumer mass-produced goods at low prices. It would be economical for ant secretary of state for inter-American affairs, made the following statement when asked about the future policy of the United States:

"I would suppose lastly we are determined in the spirit of the Punta del Este resolution which declared that a Communist regime is incompatible with the inter-American system, to see to it, in association if possible, but alone if it becomes necessary, that no further Communist regimes get established in Latin America."

No Positive Action

Rep. Gross, Republican, of Iowa then engaged in this colloquy with Mr. Martin:

"Mr. Martin: Then you have no timetable for the surgery necessary to remove this cancer?"

"Mr. Martin: No sir."

"Mr. Gross: Aren't you disturbed by the fact that the cancer can overcome the Central and South American area before the government falls in Cuba?"

"Mr. Martin: No, I think we feel we are making progress in this regard. It is a matter of concern, but we think the operation might well worsen the condition of the patient and it would also raise global problems which would worsen the position of the United States from a world security standpoint."

"Mr. Gross: We are right back where we started from—"

"Mr. Martin: On this particular question, that is correct. I think the President has made that quite clear a good many times."

"Mr. Gross: As far as I am concerned—and I don't want to argue with you—I don't think we have a policy. I think the President is playing this thing by ear and from hour to hour and day to day. I don't think this government has a policy with respect to Cuba. I think the only policy that we have is one of hope for the best and fear the worst."

European countries, with their smaller farm area and many tiny plots of ground, to concentrate on dairy and meat production. Grains could be bought much more cheaply abroad.

These ideas appealed to many Europeans, and the Common Market is now formed and moving toward unity in many ways. But when it comes to farming, things are not working out as the United States might have liked.

Farmers in Western Europe pull a lot of political weight. In the United States only 8 per cent of the working population is engaged in farming. In West Germany the figure is 15 per cent and in France 23 per cent.

France, West Germany and Italy—dominant countries in the Common Market—are ruled by conservative parties which make a strong appeal to the farmer.

The Common Market authorities have figured out an over-all system to protect their farmers.

A series of variable levies can make any farm import sell a little higher—or, if desired, a little lot higher—than the home-grown variety.

Chicken was Luxury

Chicken used to be a luxury in Europe. Ordinary folk ate it rarely, and with the feeling that they were doing something festive—the way Americans used to feel a generation or so ago. Then in 1958 the West German government began to allow the spending of foreign currency for poultry.

Within four years, the United States was selling 155 million pounds of chicken a year to West Germany. The price was well below red meat, despite a duty of five cents a pound.

German domestic producers and exporters in Denmark and Holland also stepped up sales. Chicken became a common item on the German workingman's table.

Last summer the new Common Market levies went into effect on chicken. Entrance fees for American poultry shot up 250 per cent, to 12.5 cents a pound. American exports dropped off.

West German housewives now pay about 44 cents a pound for chicken. The American product could be sold for 25 per cent less if it were not for the levies.

Denied a Bargain

European consumers are being denied a bargain but the Common Market chicken farmers are cleaning up. American chicken farmers face the loss of $50 million of business a year.

Even more money is involved in U.S. exports of grain and grain products to the Common Market—$399 million in 1961. Here too the levies have begun to be felt. Eggs and pork are also affected.

The most recent figures of the U.S. Department of Agriculture show a 26 per cent decline in exports of these products to the Common Market in the four-month period after the levies went into effect. The decline is in comparison with the same four-month period in 1961.

The Common Market aims to set up uniform prices throughout the six countries for wheat and other grains. If the price is set high, farmers inside the Common Market will put even more land into grain, and produce so much that substantial imports won't be needed.

Right now the French government supports wheat prices at about $2.15 a bushel, and the West German government at about $3. American farmers often sell wheat at $2 or less.

May Ruin Market

If the German price or something close to it were to become standard for the whole Common Market, French farmers might bring millions of acres into grain production. That could pretty much ruin the West German market not only for the United States but for Canada, Australia and Argentina as well.

American farmers are putting pressure on their government to retaliate against the poultry levy by way of warning. One suggestion is to slap a really heavy tariff on some kinds of French champagne entering the United States. President Kennedy's advisers are resisting this pressure. They feel that one retaliatory pressure brings another, and they want to cut tariffs—not to increase them.

Computer Operation Processes Phone Bills

Conversion to New Accounting System To be Completed by Middle of April

Telephone bills being received by some Appleton residents this week were processed through a new computer operation at the Wisconsin Telephone Co.'s accounting center, according to Richard Van Sistine, Appleton, manager.

The new bills, at this time, apply only to customers having Regent telephone numbers, Van Sistine noted. All other Appleton numbers will be revised to the new accounting system before the middle of April.

"More than 1,600 residents were affected by this initial change," Van Sistine said. "When the changeover is completed, almost 20,000 residents will be receiving the completely new bill form, which is printed in color and allows a separate listing of applicable state and federal taxes."

The Wisconsin Telephone Co. has two accounting centers, one located in Milwaukee, serves the greater Milwaukee area, Racine, Kenosha and Waukesha. The other, at Oshkosh, serves the remaining 83 exchanges, billing some 364,000 accounts.

The new computer system uses punched cards, Van Sistine explained. For each customer, there are up to nine cards which carry such information as name, address, monthly charges for local service, long distance calls and directory advertising.

Three Parts

These cards are processed through a computer system which contains three parts. First, there is a card punch reader which "reads" the information on the punched cards. Second, the console, or "brains" of the system, takes the information and does the required calculations. Third, the printer receives instructions from the console and prints the proper information on the customer's bill.

This system is both accurate and fast, Van Sistine pointed out. It can process bills at the rate of one per second. Other phases of the mechanization program involve processing long distance statements and customer payments.

More Customers

Van Sistine explained that the mechanization of the accounting system was necessary to take care of the growing number of telephone customers.

"With this increase in customers," he said, "there is a corresponding increase in the amount of work. Judging by the rate of expansion, the company's accounting department would not be able to hire enough people to do the work in the relatively near future."

"In addition, the new system will bring increased efficiency to the accounting operation, provide easy-to-read bills for the customer and lessen the possibility of error."

Stand-Up Comedian Yearns for Series

Jackie Mason Thinks Audiences
Prefer Variety, Action in Shows

BY CYNTHIA LOWRY
NEW YORK (AP)—Jackie Mason, the East Side New York boy who started out to be a rabbi but became a top comedian instead, has reached a turning point in his career.

"The lightning struck," he said soberly. "Looking back, I'm not sure whether my big single break came on Steve Allen's show two years ago, or on Jack Paar later. But suddenly people wanted to hire me and were offering more and more money."

"But where do I go from here? I don't think television audiences like a stand-up comedian as much as they do other types. They want more action and variety—there's not much to look at when we're working."

Mason, like every performer on the way up, yearns to be what he calls "a more complete star." That means—as it usually does—that he'd like a TV situation comedy series, and some acting parts in motion pictures. (At the moment he fervently hopes that he'll get a chance to be Red Skelton's summer replacement, perhaps teamed with Carmel Quinn in a sort of "Abie's Irish Rose" show.)

ently the official stand-in for both Garry Moore and Durward Kirby. King will be substitute host for Moore in April when the crew-cut star takes some time off, and will sit in for Kirby for the next two Sundays on "Candid Camera."

Dore Schary, who writes, directs and produces, plans a "major television series" based on H. G. Wells' "Outline of History." But probably not for next season because the three major networks are now in the final stages of arranging their September schedules.

When Jackie Coogan was in Chicago recently, he turned up at a film studio to teach some children how to deliver their lines in a commercial. It was, ironically, the same lot where Jackie made his first motion picture—at the age of 17 months, in something called "Skinner's Baby."

On a 70-city tour in the United States and Canada, the drama company is being sponsored in Appleton by the language departments of Lawrence College, St. Norbert College and the UW Fox Valley Center.

however, this fictitious font of philanthropy will dry up.

"The Millionaire," the television dramatic series based on the ever saw this rich benefactor—gun dramatic of handing a different person a million-dollar check from an anonymous donor, bowed onto the CBS network. No one just his hands or the top of his head—but his secretary, played by actor Marvin Miller, busily ran around setting up the dramas by distributing largesse.

'Learning Never Ends' Proven by Exhibits Shown at Kaukauna School Open House

"Learning Never Ends" was the theme of the Kaukauna Vocational, Technical and Adult School Open House Sunday afternoon. Neither, according to the displays, does accomplishment.

Highlight of the event was the showing of the new addition of classroom-laboratories on the second floor. The addition represents the growth of the program, which had an enrollment of 500 students 15 years ago, and now serves 1,500 adults.

Exhibits of shop work and clerical courses complemented displays of homemaking projects carried out during the year. These included knitting, foods, clothing, lapidary demonstrations, hobby craft, upholstery, millinery, rosemaking, slip covering, lamp shades, draperies and rug hooking and braiding.

A bake sale was held by the Evening Homemakers Club in conjunction with the Open House. The Kaukauna Community Hospital is slated to receive the proceeds. Homemakers' members also acted as tour guides.

A Display of Handsomely decorated plates, done in the rosemaking class, were examined by Miss Muriel Mongin and Mrs. Arthur Mongin, Kaukauna, and Mrs. Rudolph Merbach, Menasha. People from throughout the Fox Cities viewed the exhibit Sunday afternoon at the Kaukauna school. Below is an advance sewing display of suits, coats and ensembles.

Foods, Pretty enough to serve as a feast for the eyes, and hats, fetching enough to eat, drew the admiring attention of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Viaane, Appleton, and Miss Barbara Main. At left, the talents of the knitting class were admired by Mrs. H. O. Lemke and Mrs. Wilford Sager, Kaukauna. Members of the homemakers clubs served as guides during the annual tour. ## House-Wearry First Lady Due for Help by Weekend

MADISON (AP)—The Wisconsin Legislature and the State Employment Service are moving on two fronts to do something about executive mansion domestic chores that have been the burden of the state's First Lady for two weeks.

Mrs. John Reynolds says help in caring for the 19-room, 12-bathroom house is expected Saturday, and "that'll be a great lift."

"It wouldn't be so bad if I hadn't caught a cold," said the 38-year-old wife of the Democratic chief executive. "I could get a lot more done if I didn't have the sniffles."

Quit After Dispute

Two housekeepers and the cook quit two weeks ago following a difference over working hours and job assignments. The house-

Thursday when a former part-time employee returned to her job. The first of two housekeepers is due Saturday.

The State Employment Service is screening applicants for remaining positions. "I'm told they have a lot of applicants, but they have to work out those who mostly want to come out just to see the place," Mrs. Reynolds said.

Change Hiring

The Legislature is moving to shift budget allocations, so that the $10,500 provided annually to pay mansion help become an executive office expenditure, allowing the governor to hire his own help. Presently, the staff is picked by the Department of Administration and hired under Civil Service.

Looking to the day when the governor will be able to make the choices and set the hours. Mrs. Reynolds said, "Maybe that way he'll get his dinner when he wants it."

Cooking Beets

This recipe proves that beets don't have to be cooked whole to retain color: Pare and shred fresh beets on a coarse grater. Add one-half cup water, 2 tablespoons vinegar, a teaspoon of sugar, 2 tablespoons butter and season with salt and pepper. Cover and cook ten minutes over a high heat. The beets will be a lively red and make a patriotic color addition to a winter menu.

Nursing Bottle Cause Of Child's Teeth Decay

"Nursing bottle mouth," a condition in which children three or four years old suffer severe decay and loss of teeth, particularly the four upper front primary teeth, may be caused by habitually putting a child to bed with a nursing bottle of milk to help him fall asleep.

"Nursing bottle mouth" differs from rampant caries (rapid, severe and uncontrollable decay of the teeth) in that the four lower front primary teeth are not attacked by decay to any extent, while the four upper front primary teeth are so severely affected that the child's chances of keeping them the normal length of time are very poor. The first primary molars are next most seriously affected, especially on the side next to the cheek.

Inquire Into Diet

"Nothing is so shocking to a dentist as the examination of a child patient suffering from rampant caries. This is especially so when the child is under four years of age," said Dr. Elias Foss, in an article in the "Journal of Dentistry for Children." "The first inclination of the dentist is to inquire into the diet of the child."

The insistence on the part of so many of the parents of such children that their diet was well regulated, that they did not eat sweets to excess, and that some attempt was made to keep their teeth clean by brushing pointed up, that there had to be some common denominator in such cases. Further investigation into the methods of feeding the child revealed one factor which was common to all of the affected children. All were put to bed, either for the night or for a nap, with a nursing bottle of milk from which they drank, while lying down, to help them fall asleep.

Milk Is Staple in Diet

Milk is a readily utilizable source of many of the essential minerals, vitamins, fats, proteins and carbohydrates. It has become a staple of the modern child's diet. Most parents begin the feeding of the infant on a milk formula and find that the child falls asleep readily after it is well fed.

The next step for the harried or tired mother, especially one with a large young family, realizing that a child will go to sleep more readily after feeding, is to acquire the habit of giving the child of two, three or even four years of age a nursing bottle of milk when the child rebels against going to sleep.

Milk Remains in Mouth

The child lies down, holding the nursing bottle in the mouth, with the nipple against the palate, while the tongue and cheeks force the contents of the bottle into the mouth. The tongue extends almost out of the mouth, in contact with the lips, at the same time covering the lower front teeth.

At first the force of sucking on the nipple is great, the salivary secretion and flow are increased, and swallowing goes on apace, but as the child grows drowsier and finally falls asleep the rate of swallowing decreases, the salivary secretion and flow diminishes, and the milk which is present in the mouth bathes the oral cavity in a stagnant puddle. The tongue remains in contact with the lips, extended, and covering the lower anterior (front) teeth, preventing the milk from puddling or gathering around these teeth.

Since sensitivity to pain varies in individuals, the child may not complain and considerable damage may have been suffered by the time of the first visit to the dentist. Routine dental examination of the very young child (less than three years old) would be rewarded by prevention, to a greater extent, of such conditions as "nursing bottle mouth."

Unfortunately for East, South was Mrs. Stella Rebnor, of Los Angeles, a fine psychologist as well as a noted card player. Mrs. Rebnor noted the reluctant pass and braced herself for a bad trump break.

Declarer won the first trick with the queen of diamonds and led the singleton club. West stepped up with the ace of clubs and led another diamond, not realizing that a spade return was the only chance.

Side Cards

Now Mrs. Rebnor cashed all possible side cards, reducing East to his four trumps. She won the diamond return in dummy, discarded a heart on the king of clubs, ruffed a club, cashed a diamond to discard a heart from dummy, took the top hearts, and ruffed a heart in dummy.

Declarer now led another club from dummy. East ruffed with the eight of spades, and Mrs. Rebnor carefully under-ruffed with the three of spades!

East could get just one more trump trick, and South was home. If declarer had over-ruffed with the queen of spades, her forced trump return would give East the last three tricks, thus costing the contract.

Can you imagine finding the winning line of play if East had not hesitated?

Daily Question

Your right-hand opponent deals and bids one club. You hold: S—Q 7 8 3 2; H—A K J 10; D—K Q 2; C—8. What do you say?

Answer: Double. You are more interested in supporting partner's long suit than in naming a long suit of your own.

Nearly Everyone Has Dandruff

Dandruff attacks most of the human race at some time. It is estimated that 95 per cent of all Americans have been or will be troubled by the disorder.

Teens and young adults seem to be the favorite targets, but the ailment occurs at all ages. The excessively oily or dry scalp is particularly susceptible. In dry scalps the visible symptom is flake — the kind that drifts onto collars and shoulders. Oily scalps develop a scaly condition.

In treating dandruff, scrupulous cleanliness is basic. The hair should be washed no less than twice weekly. There is value in washing with dandruff or sebal shampoo, especially when the scalp exudes oil.

Dry scalp responds to shampoos formulated for dry hair and a dandruff rinse. The virtue of such rinses is their power to tame, flake and irritation, and yet condition the hair — to increase luster and manageability.

As auxiliary treatments, gentle brushing and massage come highly recommended. But the hands, dandruff, and should be cared for and the brush that do the work by a doctor.

must be hospital-clean. Bacteria on the scalp are thought to trigger dandruff. So to inhibit their growth you have to be as fussy as a surgeon about scrub-ups.

Other than its proper treatment, there is a vital point to be made about dandruff. It should not be confused with more serious scalp problems. Eruptions and wide-spread irritations are not made about dandruff. It should be cared for by a doctor.

Child's Biting Not Abnormal; Just Painful Until Controlled

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Our son is 18 months old. He has a nasty habit of biting people. Not only does he bite his playmates, he also bites his father and me.

We have tried various punishments and nothing worked. Last week, out of sheer frustration, I bit him back. This seems to have cured him, temporarily at least.

But how can I take him out in public or to the home of friends? If he should bite, I can't bite him back in the presence of others. They would think I was crazy. Please tell us what to do.—Olathe, Kansas

Dear Olathe: It's not abnormal for an 18-month-old child to bite. If his biting is combined with other symptoms of meanness, however, it could suggest real trouble ahead.

Perhaps there is antagonism between you and your husband. The child may well interpret the snarling and snapping which he witnesses as a desire on the part of his parents to bite one another. Please stop biting the child—in private or in public. Simply isolate him when he bites. He'll know he is being punished. If he is not cured of the habit within two months consult a professional.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My wife has five brothers. Her mother passed away two years ago and her father has been in poor health ever since. He is 72 years of age and needs someone with him constantly. His housekeeper has given notice that she is leaving within 30 days.

My wife's brothers say that if they can't find a suitable housekeeper for their father (he's so hard to please) we must take him into our home. According to them it's the daughter's place to take in aging parents not the sons'. Each of them has made it clear their wives would not stand for it.

My wife has a serious heart condition and is physically unable to take care of her father here. Please tell us what to do. She is a nervous wreck from all the phone conversations. Each of her five brothers calls every day and repeats, "It's your duty."—Turmoil

Dear Turmoil: The notion that it's more a daughter's duty than a son's to care for his aging parents is a neat bit of fiction. The responsibility should be shared by all children.

The solution lies in getting a competent housekeeper. If there is no alternative, hire a practical nurse. The expenses, of course, should be split six ways.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: A family in our neighborhood has two sons and a station wagon. The parents have nothing to do with adults but they love children.

This is what they do: They send a permission slip for the parents to sign. This slip tells exactly how much money the child should be given to pay for his ticket, if they are going to a circus or a movie or a sports event. If they have planned a picnic the child is told what food to bring, as his share.

My husband thinks these people are doing us a favor by just taking the children (who love it). I feel it is cheap of them to invite the neighborhood kids and expect them to pay their own way. Do Dear Iried: Sorry, I'm with your husband. It's admirable that this generous couple is willing to spend their time and energy entertaining the neighborhood kids.

I see no reason why the neighborhood children should have their way paid, too. I suggest that you parents get together and entertain the lovely couple occasionally to show your appreciation.
